U.S. SPACE RECORD SET

...Itchy Astronauts Pull Berry's Leg

Space Center, Houston (AP)—Gemini 5's cramped and somewhat itchy astronauts, with the U.S. record tucked away, Wednesday sped toward Russia's five-day mark for the longest flight in space

L Gordon Cooper Jr and Charles (Pete) Conrad Jr set a new American mark of 98 hours, 31 minutes and 30 seconds at 9 59 a m CST But the goal is breaking the Russian record—they should do that at 7 06 a m CST Thursday—and then on for a total of 121 orbits and eight days in space

The U S record set by astronauts James A McDivitt and Edward H White II on their walk in space flight in June fell as the Gemini 5 was going over New Guinea on its 62nd trip around the world

Appropriately, the record-breaking news came from an astronaut whose record was bettered, McDivitt He congratulated them

Conrad and Cooper duplicated their feat of Tuesday and again spotted Minuteman missile fired for their benefit from Vandenberg Air Force Base on the California coast

But the two astronauts, strapped down in their tiny cockpit which is no bigger than a Volkswagen's front seat, were feeling some of the effects of their confinement.

Cuffs Help Heart

Conrad was wearing pneumatic cuffs on his thighs. They were to be inflated every six minutes so that the heart, which becomes lazy during this long period of weightlessness, will have more work to do in pushing the blood through the legs.

But the gas that inflates the cuffs faltered, causing this exchange between Conrad and Dr. Charles Berry, flight surgeon:

Berry "Pete, we have checked on this cuff business and we feel that you just run out of gas, so, what we'd like for you to do is turn that switch off and then, if you desire at your option depending on how much bother you're having with the cuffs you may try and remove those cuffs if you think you can do it It's up to you"

Conrad Okay I'm going to try and take them off because when the heat load's up I sweat around the legs and that makes them itch right there very badly and as long as it's not running it's not doing me any good

Berry That's right, Pete And I think you ought to just be careful when you're using the scissors there

This was the first flight on which the cuffs had been tried

The high flying astronauts even had time to kid earth bound scientists

Both wear spacesuits to protect them in case of pressure failure in the cabin but Cooper in particular wishes he could be freer

So Wednesday he said We feel lots better since we got our suits off "

Gets Berry Excited

This may have been funny but not to Berry Paul Haney the voice of the astronauts said the remark brought Dr Berry right up out of his car We're sure it was in jest but it elevated his pulse rate

How to remain comfortable when packed in and surrounded by instruments continues a problem

Cooper Yeah '

No Curlers

McDivitt Did you take any curlers along to curl it'

Cooper No we should have

McDivitt You can always braid it and tie your mike up with it "

Cooper "Thanks. All the sensors (devices taped to the skin for registering heartbeats and other measurements) are itching worse than the beard'

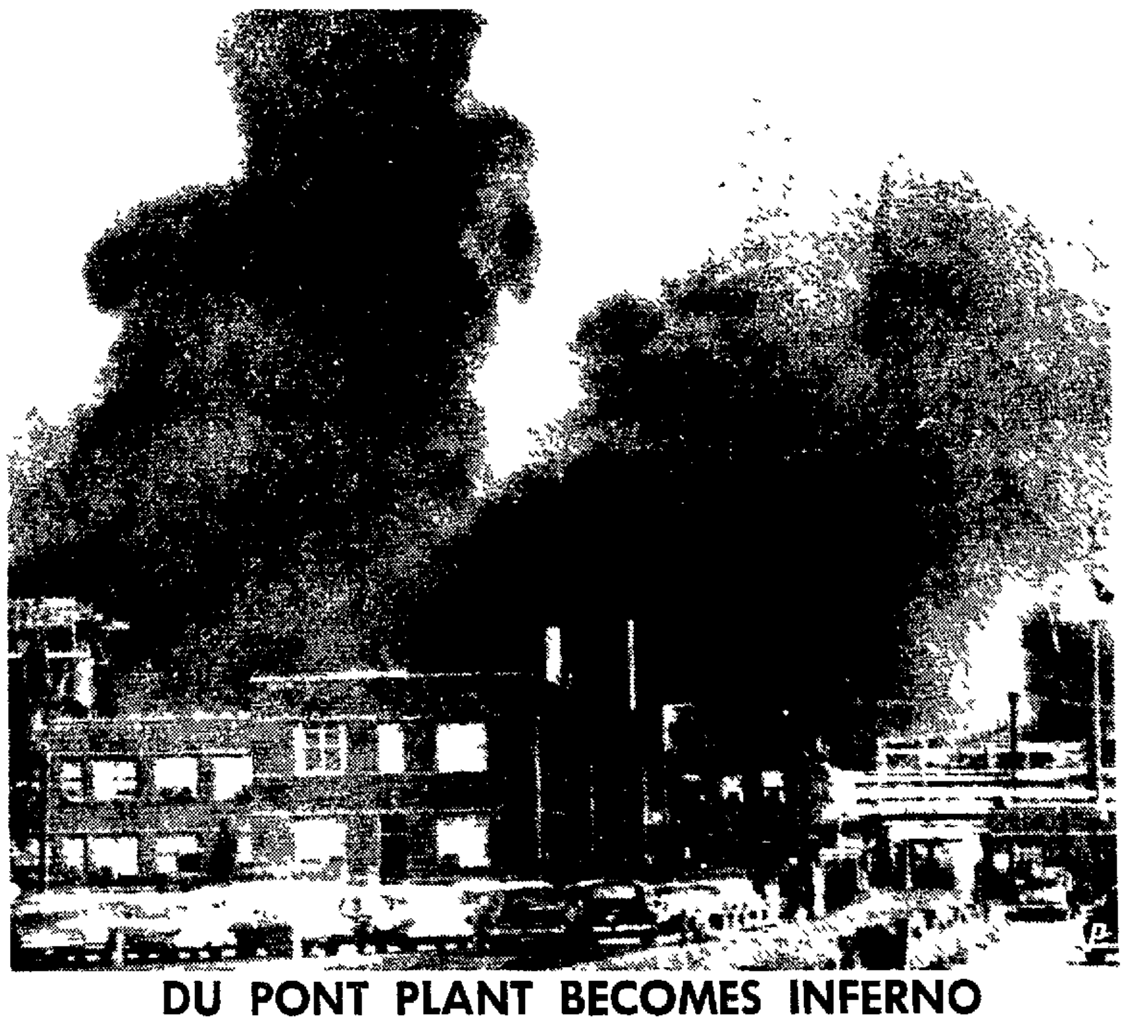
Again the astronauts were plagued with a problem that has bothered them throughout the flight more chores have been lined up than they can do

But if an astronaut's work is never done it can be shifted Doctors were considering some rescheduling to allow more uninterrupted napping time



DU PONT PLANT BECOMES INFERNO

At least 26 explosions within nine hours Wednesday turned part of Du Pont's synthetic rubber plant in the Louisville Ky, 'Rubbertown'' complex into an inferno that seemed "like hell breaking loose ' Smoke hovered over the area. Jefferson County (Louisville) police estimated that 10 men died and Du Pont officials confirmed that 10 were missing Hospitals treated 35 injured persons. A company spokesman estimated damage at between $5 million and $10 million The explosions' cause was not known

"Everybody here is in the same low income bracket and we all know it. We're not exactly proud of it and don't mention it much "

A Neighborhood Youth Corps student assisting in the office at Lincoln Northeast High expressed the attitude of many, if not all, of the 65 youths working for the Lincoln Public Schools in jobs 90% funded by the Economic Opportunity Act.

'Most of us were unable to get other summer jobs We need to work for extra money to help us get through college," the 17-year-old senior explained

Schools Give 10%

Lincoln's neighborhood Youth Corps was granted $321,000 on its approval July 8 for the summer and school year program, according to Robert Buckner, NYC coordinator. The school system's 10% contribution is 'in kind" services he said

The funds would accommodate 460 students, ages 16-21, who qualify under the $3,200 family of four income limit. However, it is not expected that more than 200 will be employed during the first year, Buckner said.

The anti-poverty measure aid, partly established to curb school drop-outs is also tied to school enrollment

A vacation hindered the Northeast coed from finding a summer job before they were all gone I applied several places but didn't have much luck" Her previous work experience amounted to car-hop employment

Mother Saw Article

"My mother saw an article in the paper about the Neighborhood Youth Corps and suggested I apply at the school," she related

Another thing that attracted me was the pay. It's good Usually a high school girl can only make $ 60 or $ 65 an hour on a job which offers worthless experience," the NYC office assistant noted

Students are paid a flat $1.25 per hour. During the summer they may work as many as 32 hours a week but will be limited to ten during the school term, according to Buckner.

While she is receiving valuable experience' in the school office at Northeast High doing secretarial work and using business machines, the young lady hoping to major in education in college would like to be a teacher assistant this fall

In School Hours

'The work," which she described as correcting papers and other record-keeping chores for a teacher, "can be done during school hours so it does not take outside time "

The NYC salary will help this student attend the university of her choice outside the state although she plans to work while attending.

Lincoln Public Schools jobs for Youth Corps workers include assistants to teachers, laboratories, food services, sports, building and grounds, data processing, warehouse and stores, audio-visual and printing.

During the summer 15 students have been employed at Lincoln High School, three in the print shop, six at Northeast High, nine in the Public School Administration Building and 32 in the operations and maintenance department.

Mill Levy Lower; Lincoln Tax Higher

Lincoln property owners will apparently pay a slightly lower total tax mill levy this year than they did last, but the amount of tax in dollars will be nearly 19% higher

The reason is the whopping 28% increase in property valuations ordered by the State Board of Equalization That increase applies to five of the seven property tax levies which Lincoln taxpayers must pay

The exact amount of the increase on any given piece of property will vary somewhat, because city and state valuations are not the same for all property, and weren't even the same before the state ordered the 28% increase

To arrive at an approximate figure on the dollar amount and percentage increase The Star figured the tax on a hypothetical piece of property with an assessed valuation last year of $5 000 by both the city and the state (the state and conty assessed valuations are the same)

The assessed valuation is supposed to be 35% of the 'actual value" of the property This means the hypothetical Property X would have had an "actual value" in the neighborhood of $15,000 — a figure substantially higher than the "actual value" placed by either city or state on an average home

If no changes were made in the property to change its valuation, Property X would have an assessed valuation this year of $5,000 again for the city, but the state valuation would be increased to $6 400

The $5,000 figure would be used to figure city and Airport Authority tax, and the $6,400 would be used to figure the school district, state, county, county institutional, and Salt-Wahoo Watershed District taxes

Property X would have paid $456 65 last year on a total mill levy of 91 33 The property would be liable this year for a tax of $543 31, on a mill lvy of 90 68

The increase for the hypothetical Property X would be $86 66 total or 18 99%

Biggest single increase in taxes on Property X would be in state government taxes which would go up from $45 70 to $75 07, an increase of $29 37 or 64% The increase is caused by a combination of increase in the levy (from 9 14 to 11 73) and increase in valuation (28%)

Next largest increase in the Property X tax would be for Lincoln public schools Last year Property X would have paid $249 95, and this year would pay $275 27, an increase of $25 32, or 10% The levy will be down somewhat (from 49 99 last year to an estimated 42 98 this year) but the increased state valuation figure is used to figure school tax

Other increases in dollars, on the taxes for Property X

City $15 50
County $9 64
County Institutional $5 53
Salt-Wahoo $1 05
Airport Authority $ 25

School Levy Set

Lincoln's school mill levy will be seven mills lower this year, but Lincoln residents will pay about 10% more taxes. For explanation of this apparent contradiction, see page 3

Platte Valley Power Planning To Build 230-KV Grand Island-North Platte Link

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District will file an application with the Nebraska Power Review Board to complete a 230-kilovolt electric transmission loop through Nebraska by constructing a tie from Grand Island to North Platte

Platte General Manager Homer Loutzenheiser said Wednesday that his district will probably file its application sometime next month.

The line, which would be constructed by Platte in behalf of the Nebraska Public Power System, would cost an estimated $3 million and should be completed by 1969, Loutzenheiser said

Would Complete Loop

A North Platte-Grand Island segment would complete a 230-KV loop tying together Nebraska's transmission grid and U S. Bureau of Reclamation facilities in South Dakota.

A 230-KV line now ties Columbus to USBR facilities at Fort Randall. The Bureau's transmission network includes connections from Fort Randall to Oahe, and a 230-KV tie is now being constructed by USBR from Oahe to Stegall on the western Nebraska border.

Tri-State Generation and Association is constructing a 230-KV line from Stegall to Sidney and Consumers Public Power District is building a 230-KV tie from Sidney to North Platte, with completion due in 1966

Slowed By Strike

Loup River Public Power District, on behalf of NPPS, is constructing a 230-KV line from Columbus to Grand Island with completion delayed by a strike which has held back needed cross arms and cross arm braces

An 18 to 20-mile gap in the Loup line will be completed as soon as the strike ends, Loutzenheiser noted.

With completion of the 230-KV loop, Nebraska will have the benefit of dual direction power flow which will assist utilities in meeting supply requirements throughout the state, he pointed out

Has Funds

Platte will probably not need to borrow money to undertake construction of the Grand Island-North Platte line, Loutzenheiser said, since sufficient funds are apparently available within NPPS

In other power news, the Power Board set a meeting for Sept. 22 between board members and the 11 directors of the new statewide electric grid system created by the 1965 Legislature

Gov Frank Morrison expects to name the directors later this week

Eye Ramifications

Power Board Chairman William Norton of Osceola said the board wants to "give them an idea of what we are trying to achieve" and discuss with them ramifications of legislation establishing the grid

The board also plans to meet with officials of Consumers, Loup, Platte, rural districts and municipal utilities at a separate conference on the same date to discuss the new grid.

Representatives of Consumers and the rurals will be called before the board next Wednesday to discuss specifically the effect of the new legislation on retail service area agreements

The new grid will consolidate wholesale electric activities of Consumers, Loup and Platte

In other action, the board approved three service area agreements bringing to 370 the total thus far accepted Only 18 are now pending approval

. . . FOR DISTRICT COURT TRIAL

Attorneys for Duane Earl Pope asked Wednesday that evidence gathered by government agents against the youthful Kansan be suppressed by the U S. District Court here.

The evidence included statements made by Pope on June 12 and 13 in connection with the June 4 holdup of the Farmers State Bank at Big Springs, Neb., in which three bank employes were shot to death and a fourth seriously wounded.

The motion was signed by University of Nebraska law Professor Wallace M Rudolph, one of two attorneys appointed to defend Pope on six federal charges stemming from the robbery. Three of the charges could bring the death penalty.

Guns Too

Rudolph also asked that a derringer, a high-powered rifle and a .22-caliber revolver with a silencer belonging to Pope not be admitted in court evidence

The motion further requested that a sport coat and trousers and other clothing belonging to the Kansan be suppressed. The motion also mentioned "an iron plate cut from a dozer blade."

The motion said the evidence should be suppressed because ' all the various items . . were obtained by the government agents because of information supplied them by the defendant and are the fruits of illegal interrogation and involuntary statements "

'He Was Incapable'

Rudolph contended that Pope's state of mind ' on June 12 and 13, 1965, was such that he was incapable of making a free and voluntary statement "

It adedd "The failure of the government agents to provide counsel or to obtain for him the advice of family or friends before questioning him about a crime carrying the death penalty was in violation of his right to counsel and his right against self-incrimination."

The sum of the government's interrogation after Pope surrendered June 11 in Kansas City, Mo was to violate the 22-year-old Kansan's guarantees under the federal Constitution, Rudolph contended

Rudolph asked a Sept 3 hearing on the motion. The same day, U S District Judge Robert Van Pelt is scheduled to hear arguments on a motion that persons opposed to the death penalty be allowed to serve on the jury during the trial that is expected this fall

Three Murders

Pope of rural Roxbury, Kan, is charged with slaying bank President Andreas (Andy) Kjelgaard, 77, Glenn Hendrickson, 59, the bank cashier, and Mrs Lois Ann Hothan, 35, a bookkeeper

He is also charged with wounding Franklin Kjeldgaard, 24 assistant cashier of the bank and taking more than $1,500

Earlier, Van Pelt granted a motion by Pope's counsel that the government turn over statements made by Pope in Kansas City and other government evidence.

Pope has also received court approval for mental examinations His attorneys contend Pope is ' blameless" for the crime as charged because of his mental condition at the time."

RFK Has Eyes Only On Senate

Washington (AP)—Sen Robert F Kennedy D-N Y., said Wednesday he has no intention of running for vice president in 1968, expects to bid for re-election in 1970, and has no plans to seek the presidency in 1972

The New York senator, pictured as a possible rival for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey three years from now, said he likes his job as senator and hopes to keep it. He said that while it doesn't have the world impact of his former post of attorney general and adviser to the late President John F. Kennedy, it "offers great satisfaction."

In a wide ranging interview with the Associated Press, Kennedy also —Said there was never any disagreement between him and his brother President Kennedy about the desirability of having Lyndon B. Johnson on the 1960 Democratic ticket He added that he was acting on his brother's orders when he informed Johnson that there was labor and liberal opposition to his nomination

—Reported President Kennedy's "great confidence" in secretary of State Dean Rusk but declined to comment on reports that his brother intended to replace Rusk after the 1964 elections.

—Said the country is asking for trouble, with the possibility of more violence, unless it develops programs to provid jobs and a better future for Negroes in the North.

—Contended that the United States will lose the over-all struggle in Viet Nam unless it puts more emhasis on social, political, economic and agricultural progress for the peasants there.

U.S. SPACE RECORD SET

...Itchy Astronauts Pull Berry's Leg

Space Center, Houston (AP)—Gemini 5's cramped and somewhat itchy astronauts, with the U.S. record tucked away, Wednesday sped toward Russia's five-day mark for the longest flight in space.

L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles (Pete) Conrad Jr. set a new American mark of 98 hours, 31 minutes and 30 seconds at 9:59 a.m. CST. But the goal is breaking the Russian record—they should do that at 7:06 a.m. CST Thursday—and then on for a total of 121 orbits and eight days in space.

The U.S. record, set by astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II on their walk-in-space flight in June, fell as the Gemini 5 was going over New Guinea on its 62nd trip around the world.

Appropriately, the record-breaking news came from an astronaut whose record was bettered, McDivitt. He congratulated them.

Conrad and Cooper duplicated their feat of Tuesday and again spotted Minuteman missile fired for their benefit from Vandenberg Air Force Base on the California coast.

But the two astronauts, strapped down in their tiny cockpit which is no bigger than a Volkswagen's front seat, were feeling some of the effects of their confinement.

Cuffs Help Heart

Conrad was wearing pneumatic cuffs on his thighs. They were to be inflated every six minutes so that the heart, which becomes lazy during this long period of weightlessness, will have more work to do in pushing the blood through the legs.

But the gas that inflates the cuffs faltered, causing this exchange between Conrad and Dr. Charles Berry, flight surgeon:

Berry: "Pete, we have checked on this cuff business and we feel that you just run out of gas, so, what we'd like for you to do is turn that switch off and then, if you desire, at your option, depending on how much bother you're having with the cuffs, you may try and remove those cuffs if you think you can do it. It's up to you."

Conrad: "Okay, I'm going to try and take them off, because when the heat load's up, I sweat around the legs and that makes them itch right there very badly, and as long as it's not running it's not doing me any good."

Berry "That's right, Pete. And I think you ought to . . . just be careful when you're using the scissors there."

This was the first flight on which the cuffs had been tried.

The high-flying astronauts even had time to kid earthbound scientists.

Both wear spacesuits to protect them in case of pressure failure in the cabin, but Cooper in particular wishes he could be freer.

So Wednesday he said, "We feel lots better since we got our suits off."

Gets Berry Excited

This may have been funny, but not to Berry. Paul Haney, the voice of the astronauts, said the remark brought "Dr Berry right up out of his car. We're sure it was in jest, but it elevated his pulse rate."

How to remain comfortable when packed in, and surrounded by, instruments continues a problem.

McDivitt, a veteran of four days in space who knows what the crew is up against, asked:

"Hey, is your beard getting itchy yet?"

Cooper: "Yeah."

No Curlers

McDivitt: "Did you take any curlers along to curl it?"

Cooper: "No, we should have."

McDivitt: "You can always braid it and tie your mike up with it."

Cooper: "Thanks. All the sensors (devices taped to the skin for registering heartbeats and other measurements) are itching worse than the beard."

Again the astronauts were plagued with a problem that has bothered them throughout the flight: more chores have been lined up than they can do.

But if an astronaut's work is never done, it can be shifted. Doctors were considering some rescheduling to allow more uninterrupted napping time.

DU PONT PLANT BECOMES INFERNO

At least 26 explosions within nine hours Wednesday turned part of Du Pont's synthetic rubber plant in the Louisville, Ky., "Rubbertown" complex into an inferno that seemed "like hell breaking loose." Smoke hovered over the area. Jefferson County (Louisville) police estimated that 10 men died and Du Pont officials confirmed that 10 were missing. Hospitals treated 35 injured persons. A company spokesman estimated damage at between $5 million and $10 million. The explosions' cause was not known.

Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District will file an application with the Nebraska Power Review Board to complete a 230-kilovolt electric transmission loop through Nebraska by constructing a tie from Grand Island to North Platte.

Platte General Manager Homer Loutzenheiser said Wednesday that his district will probably file its application sometime next month.

The line, which would be constructed by Platte in behalf of the Nebraska Public Power System, would cost an estimated $3 million and should be completed by 1969, Loutzenheiser said.

Would Complete Loop

A North Platte-Grand Island segment would complete a 230-KV loop tying together Nebraska's transmission grid and U.S. Bureau of Reclamation facilities in South Dakota.

A 230-KV line now ties Columbus to USBR facilities at Fort Randall. The Bureau's transmission network includes connections from Fort Randall to Oahe, and a 230-KV tie is now being constructed by USBR from Oahe to Stegall on the western Nebraska border.

Tri-State Generation and Association is constructing a 230-KV line from Stegall to Sidney, and Consumers Public Power District is building a 230-KV tie from Sidney to North Platte, with completion due in 1966.

Slowed By Strike

Loup River Public Power District, on behalf of NPPS, is constructing a 230-KV line from Columbus to Grand Island, with completion delayed by a strike which has held back needed cross arms and cross arm braces.

An 18 to 20-mile gap in the Loup line will be completed as soon as the strike ends, Loutzenheiser noted.

With completion of the 230-KV loop, Nebraska will have the benefit of dual direction power flow which will assist utilities in meeting supply requirements throughout the state, he pointed out.

Has Funds

Platte will probably not need to borrow money to undertake construction of the Grand Island-North Platte line, Loutzenheiser said, since sufficient funds are apparently available within NPPS.

In other power news, the Power Board set a meeting for Sept. 22 between board members and the 11 directors of the new statewide electric grid system created by the 1965 Legislature.

Gov. Frank Morrison expects to name the directors later this week.

Eye Ramifications

Power Board Chairman William Norton of Osceola said the board wants to "give them an idea of what we are trying to achieve" and discuss with them ramifications of legislation establishing the grid.

The board also plans to meet with officials of Consumers, Loup, Platte, rural districts and municipal utilities at a separate conference on the same date to discuss the new grid.

Representatives of Consumers and the rurals will be called before the board next Wednesday to discuss specifically the effect of the new legislation on retail service area agreements.

The new grid will consolidate wholesale electric activities of Consumers, Loup and Platte.

In other action, the board approved three service area agreements, bringing to 370 the total thus far accepted. Only 18 are now pending approval.

. . . FOR DISTRICT COURT TRIAL

Attorneys for Duane Earl Pope asked Wednesday that evidence gathered by government agents against the youthful Kansan be suppressed by the U.S. District Court here.

The evidence included statements made by Pope on June 12 and 13 in connection with the June 4 holdup of the Farmers State Bank at Big Springs, Neb., in which three bank employes were shot to death and a fourth seriously wounded.

The motion was signed by University of Nebraska law Professor Wallace M. Rudolph, one of two attorneys appointed to defend Pope on six federal charges stemming from the robbery. Three of the charges could bring the death penalty.

Guns Too

Rudolph also asked that a derringer, a high-powered rifle and a .22-caliber revolver with a silencer belonging to Pope not be admitted in court evidence.

The motion further requested that a sport coat and trousers and other clothing belonging to the Kansan be suppressed. The motion also mentioned "an iron plate cut from a dozer blade."

The motion said the evidence should be suppressed because "all the various items . . . were obtained by the government agents because of information supplied them by the defendant and are the fruits of illegal interrogation and involuntary statements."

'He Was Incapable'

Rudolph contended that Pope's state of mind "on June 12 and 13, 1965, was such that he was incapable of making a free and voluntary statement."

It adedd: "The failure of the government agents to provide counsel or to obtain for him the advice of family or friends before questioning him about a crime carrying the death penalty was in violation of his right to counsel and his right against self-incrimination."

The sum of the government's interrogation after Pope surrendered June 11 in Kansas City, Mo., was to violate the 22-year-old Kansan's guarantees under the federal Constitution, Rudolph contended.

Rudolph asked a Sept. 3 hearing on the motion. The same day, U.S. District Judge Robert Van Pelt is scheduled to hear arguments on a motion that persons opposed to the death penalty be allowed to serve on the jury during the trial that is expected this fall.

Three Murders

Pope, of rural Roxbury, Kan., is charged with slaying bank President Andreas (Andy) Kjelgaard, 77; Glenn Hendrickson, 59, the bank cashier; and Mrs. Lois Ann Hothan, 35, a bookkeeper.

He is also charged with wounding Franklin Kjeldgaard, 24, assistant cashier of the bank and taking more than $1,500.

Earlier, Van Pelt granted a motion by Pope's counsel that the government turn over statements made by Pope in Kansas City and other government evidence.

Pope has also received court approval for mental examinations. His attorneys contend Pope is "blameless" for the crime as charged "because of his mental condition at the time."

RFK Has Eyes Only On Senate

Washington (AP)—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said Wednesday he has no intention of running for vice president in 1968, expects to bid for re-election in 1970, and has no plans to seek the presidency in 1972.

The New York senator, pictured as a possible rival for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey three years from now, said he likes his job as senator and hopes to keep it. He said that while it doesn't have the world impact of his former post of attorney general and adviser to the late President John F. Kennedy, it "offers great satisfaction."

In a wide ranging interview with the Associated Press, Kennedy also:

—Said there was never any disagreement between him and his brother President Kennedy, about the desirability of having Lyndon B. Johnson on the 1960 Democratic ticket. He added that he was acting on his brother's orders when he informed Johnson that there was labor and liberal opposition to his nomination.

—Reported President Kennedy's "great confidence" in secretary of State Dean Rusk but declined to comment on reports that his brother intended to replace Rusk after the 1964 elections.

—Said the country is asking for trouble, with the possibility of more violence, unless it develops programs to provid jobs and a better future for Negroes in the North.

—Contended that the United States will lose the over-all struggle in Viet Nam unless it puts more emhasis on social, political, economic and agricultural progress for the peasants there.

LBJ Invites Russian To Gemini 6 Blastoff

. . . GIVES SPACE LABORATORY GO-AHEAD

Washington (AP) — President Johnson invited the Soviet Union Wednesday to send one of its top scientists to the October launching of America's manned space mission.

With Gemini 5 whirling about the earth "as a dramatic reminder," Johnson said "that our American dream for outer space is a dream of peace," the President gave the go-ahead for a new $1.5 billion venture into space, a manned orbiting laboratory.

Johnson said the United States will not orbit weapons of mass destruction, but he also noted the space laboratories will enable the nation to relate "what man is able to do in space . . . to the defense of America."

Dwells On Viet Nam

Johnson dealt with a wide assortment of topics in a 40-minute nationally broadcast and televised news conference. There were no dramatic new pronouncements on the war in Viet Nam but much of the news conference dealt with the fighting there.

At one point, Johnson said the Southeast Asian war dwarfs some of the other issues facing the nation.

Dealing with other topics, Johnson:

—Told steel industry labor and management "I expect full and complete responsibility in the current wage negotiations and I expect continued stability in steel prices."

—Announced that a "top flight task force" headed by Dep. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark will go to Los Angeles soon on a mission designed to avert the kind of tension which exploded into bloody riots there.

—Said the administration hopes for a settlement soon of the government turmoil in the Dominican Republic.

—Charged that a federal pay increase pending in the House "would be very disastrous to our price-wage stability policy . . ."

Dixie Encouraging

—Said he is encouraged and pleased by compliance with the new voting rights law in much of the South.

Johnson announced he has instructed space agency administrator James E. Webb to invite the Soviet Academy of Science to send a very high level representative to observe the launching of Gemini 6.

To Try Rendezvous

Gemini 6, to be piloted by Navy Capt. Walter Schirra and Air Force Maj. Thomas Stafford, will make the first attempt to link a manned spacecraft with another orbiting object, a satellite launched by another rocket.

Johnson Replies Softly To GOP Critics

Washington (AP)—Replying to his Republican critics, President Johnson said Wednesday the issues of war and peace in Viet Nam are far greater than partisan differences. And leaders of both parties are giving him "excellent cooperation," he said.

At a news conference sandwiched between a pair of salvos from House GOP chiefs, Johnson added:

"The boys that are fighting the war are not divided between Republicans and Democrats . . . While our men are fighting and dying for freedom in South Viet Nam, I am going to do everything that I can to support these men and to unite the country behind them."

The very timing of the President's meeting with newsmen, broadcast nationally by radio and television, figured in criticism from House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and his colleagues.

The House Republicans had let it be known for a week that they would issue a "white paper" on Viet Nam Wednesday. Then the White House announced the presidential news conference for Wednesday.

Before And After

So the House GOP strategists hurriedly released their 37-page Viet Nam report late Tuesday and followed Johnson's news conference with one of their own Wednesday afternoon. Ford said Johnson had made "a deliberate attempt to smother" news coverage of their document.

The Republican "white paper" struck at earlier Democratic activities concerning Viet Nam rather than at present Johnson administration policy.

Johnson chose soft words Wednesday when asked whether the House Republicans under Ford "injected undue partisanship into the Viet Nam situation."

"I think the issue of war and peace in Viet Nam are far greater than any personal differences that one might have—for that matter, far greater than any party's," Johnson said.

"We welcome expressions of viewpoint from the leadership in both parties," Johnson added. "There will be times when we don't see everything alike, but that may contribute strength to our system."

India Troops Cross Cease-Fire Line

New Delhi, India (AP)—India announced Wednesday its forces had crossed the cease-fire line in Kashmir at two points and occupied Pakistani territory to pinch off guerrillas.

Indian troops came under brief fire but suffered no casualties as they drove ahead to establish new positions in the attacks Tuesday afternoon and last night, the government said.

It is the second time Indian troops have attacked across the cease-fire line since the guerrilla war erupted in Kashmir Aug. 5. Indians occupied three Pakistani positions in the Kargil Sector Aug. 15.

Indian officials refused to give any details of the latest attacks, even declining to say where the action took place.

This gave rise to speculation that the timing of the announcement was aimed at influencing a parliamentary debate on a no confidence motion against Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri's government.

Shastri's opposition, right and left wing, has been demanding attacks on what India says are guerrilla-training and staging areas in Pakistani-held Kashmir.

DEFENSE MONEY OKAYED

Washington (AP)—The Senate approved a huge money bill to pay for the nation's defense Wednesday and it included a $1.7 billion emergency fund for the war in Viet Nam.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., predicted Congress will have to anti up an additional $7 billion to $10 billion to finance the conflict there when it reconvenes in January.

The vote on the $46,756,319,000 appropriation was a unanimous 89 to 0.

The House now must reconsider the measure with the changes made by the Senate. As originally passed, the House sought only slightly more than $45 billion.

But the request for the Vietnamese emergency fund hadn't been made then.

Legion Auxiliary To Elect Officers

Portland, Ore. (AP) — Members of the American Legion Auxiliary will vote Thursday on a slate of officers.

Floor nominations will be accepted, but there is expected to be no opposition to those nominated in the divisional meetings at Portland.

Mrs. Walter H. Glynn, Des Moines, Iowa, is the nominee for president.

The auxiliary meeting will close after installations of officers, coinciding with the closing of the 47th National American Legion convention.

Roosevelt, 3 Others Hand-Picked By Goldberg For Posts At U.N.

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson announced Wednesday that the late Adlai E. Stevenson's old team at the United Nations will be replaced by four persons hand-picked by his successor Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg.

Yost

Mrs. Anderson

The major reshuffle, coming at a crucial time in the Viet Nam war, will send to the U.N. among others Rep. James Roosevelt, D-Calif., and Dr. James M. Nabrit Jr., the Negro president of Howard University in Washington.

Consulted Rusk

Goldberg was said to have recommended his choices after consultations with Secretary of State Dean Rusk who with the President has been in almost daily consultation with the former Supreme Court justice.

Johnson told a news conference that career diplomat Charles Yost, 58, would replace Francis T. P. Plimpton as Goldberg's principal deputy. Plimpton who was acting head of the U.S. delegation until Goldberg took over may be available for consultative work with the administration, officials said.

Mrs. Eugenie Anderson of Red Wing, Minn., former ambassador to Denmark and U.S. minister to Bulgaria, will succeed Mrs. Marietta Tree as U.S. representative on the U.N. Trusteeship Council.

Mrs. Tree, a close friend of Stevenson, was with him when he dropped dead on a sidewalk near the U.S. embassy in London and tried unsuccessfully to revive him. She was sent to the United Nations in 1961.

Roosevelt, 58, will give up the House seat he has held for 10 years to succeed Franklin Williams on the U.N. Economic and Social Council, a post once held by his mother, the late Eleanor Roosevelt.

Williams was to get a Washington assignment, apparently in the White House.

Nabrit, 64, will succeed Yost as deputy U.S. representative on the U.N. Security Council. The educator will take a year's leave of absence from Howard, a predominantly Negro institution.

Other appointments announced by Johnson were:

—Hobart Taylor Jr., a Negro, to be a board director of the Export Import Bank. Taylor has been associate special counsel to the President since May 1964 and earlier was executive vice chairman of the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity.

—Eugene P. Foley, the small business administrator, to be assistant secretary of commerce in charge of the new Office of Economic Development which will coordinate public works and area redevelopment projects as part of the war on poverty.

—Clifford L. Alexander, 32, a deputy special assistant on the White House staff, to succeed Taylor as a presidential counsel.

—David G. Bress, [illegible] a Washington attorney and former law professor, to be U.S. attorney for the District of Columbia.

Russians Label Gemini 5 Astronauts Space Spies

Moscow (UPI) — The Russians charged Wednesday Gemini 5 astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles (Pete) Conrad are spying on Communist China, Cuba and North Viet Nam with powerful cameras "that make possible detailed pictures of cities."

It was the latest in a string of Soviet accusations that the eight-day orbital voyage of the Gemini 5 pilots is basically a military operation.

The official Tass news agency later reported the Russians Wednesday launched Cosmos 79, another unmanned satellite which carried scientific instruments and was circling the earth every 90 minutes. It was the third Cosmos launching of the month.

The military newspaper Red Star said Gemini 5 would make 11 passes over Cuba, 16 over North Viet Nam and 40 over Red China.

"The main purpose of Gemini 5 is to check the possibility of interception of artificial satellites and to conduct reconnaissance from the Cosmos," the paper said.

It said Gemini 5 has ultra-modern cameras "that make possible detailed pictures of cities, railways, ports, ships, etc." The astronauts also are conducting visual reconnaissance, Red Star claimed.

"Suffice it to mention that out of 17 experiments envisaged by the program six have been planned by the Defense Department and kept secret," the dispatch said.

$100 Fuse Likely Reason Satellite Doesn't Succeed

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — A $10 million "sunshine satellite" thundered aloft Wednesday to gain more knowledge about the sun but failed to go into orbit, probably because of a faulty $100 fuse.

Trouble with the third stage of the delta rocket was believed responsible for failure of the 620-pound orbiting solar observatory satellite to reach an intended 350 mile-high orbit.

Most likely cause for loss of the spacecraft was a fuse that [illegible] to ignite the third stage, space officials said.

Alvord Drug Is Third Recently Burglarized Store

Alvord Drugstore, 855 So. 27th, was broken into Tuesday night, bringing to three the number of Lincoln drug stores victimized in the past few days.

Five one dollar bills were taken from the cash drawer plus an undetermined amount of cash from a petty cash box, police said. No narcotics were taken, police added.

Entrance was gained by breaking a window.

Other drugstores hit recently were Family Drugstore, 48th and Van Dorn, and Union Service Drugstore, 311 No. 25th.

A safe was taken at Union Service Drugstore and later found ripped open. At Family D[illegible] peeled the safe but did not take it out of the building.

Rites Tentatively Set For Victim Of Crossing Crash

Lincoln Star Special

Superior —Funeral services for Maurice Christensen, 31, fatally injured in a rail crossing accident, have tentatively been set for 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the Centennial Lutheran Church.

The Superior resident lost his life Tuesday when the auto he was driving collided with a Burlington freight train at a crossing on Highway 14, just south of the Edgar turnoff. The crossing has crossarms, but not flasher signals.

His wife, Janet, 26, suffered injuries in the crash as did the Christensens' three-month-old son, William. The baby was transferred to a Lincoln hospital where he was listed in "satisfactory" condition late Wednesday. Mrs. Christensen was hospitalized in Superior.

Mr. Christensen with his father operated the International Harvester agency at Superior.

Unidentified Balloon Seen West Areas

Omaha (UPI)—A huge unidentified balloon has been sighted at various points over Nebraska and the U.S. Weather Bureau has sent out a general message to all points east of the Rocky Mountains in an effort to learn who launched it

The gigantic balloon hovered over Sidney about 9:39 a.m. Wednesday and residents thought it was an unidentified flying object.

A rapid check with the Sidney Federal Aviation Agency proved it to be a balloon from an unknown origin.

The Sidney FAA said the balloon is 1,170 feet long and 107 feet wide. It is moving eastward across the state at about 18 miles per hour at an altitude of about 55,000 feet, but because of its size, it looks like it's only about 300 or 400 feet off the ground.

A spokesman for the weather bureau in Omaha said according to the wind direction, it came from the West, but there is "no telling who sent it up".

Lincoln Public School Levy Is Down 7 Mills

. . . BUT VALUATION UPS TAX

The tax levy for Lincoln Public Schools apparently will drop from last year's 49.99 mills to approximately 42.98 mills, but taxpayers will pay about 10% more taxes in dollars on property which hasn't changed value.

The reason for the seeming contradiction is that the state increase of 28% in valuation of property is used to figure school taxes. So, a given property will have a higher assessed valuation against which the mill levy is applied.

Neither the Lincoln School District nor the County institutional tax levies have yet been set by the Lancaster County Board, but The Star Wednesday obtained from County Clerk Carl Hartman the assessed valuation figures which will be used to determine the levy. The amount of money to be raised has been known for some time.

The county institutional levy—which pays the cost of keeping Lancaster County residents in state institutions, will be about 2.88 mills.

The school district's estimated levy was figured by taking the $11,764,649 to be raised by taxes for the district and dividing that figure by the district's assessed valuation of $273,730,915, obtained Wednesday from County Clerk Carl Hartman.

That figure was multiplied by 1,000 to obtain the approximate mill levy.

The institutions levy estimate was arrived at by taking the $716,687 to be raised by taxes for the 1965-66 fiscal year and dividing it by the county's approximate assessed valuation of $247,868,808.

This figure, multiplied by 1,000, gives the estimated 2.88 mill levy.

Urban Tax Is Fifth Above Former Levy

The State Board of Equalization's 28% increase in assessed valuations on Lancaster County urban property is causing less than one-fifth of the increase in total property tax dollars Lincoln property owners will have to pay.

This is because the city and Airport Authority taxes are still based on the old city valuations (not changed by the state order), and in all other taxes the increased valuations simply reduced the amount of the mill levy needed to raise the money governmental subdivisions decided to spend.

On a hypothetical property valued last year at $5,000 the total tax increase for this year would be about 19%, or $86.66. Only $16.42 of that, or less than a fifth of the increase, was caused by the state valuation change.

Last year Property X's state tax would have been $45.07, on a mill levy of 11.73.

This year the tax would be up $29.37, to $75.07, on a mill levy of 11.73, because the valuation was increased on Property X to $6,400.

But had the valuation not increased, the state taxes would still have increased $12.95 to $58.65.

The difference between the two increases, $16.42, is all the state's assessed valuation increase would cost Property X in Lincoln.

Bathke Receives Omaha Women's Job Corps Post

Omaha (AP)—Dr. Robert A. Bathke, superintendent of Howells schools from 1959 to 1964, has been named director of education and vocational training for the Omaha Women's Job Corps Center, Dr. John Coakley, head of the center, announced Wednesday.

Coakley said Dr. Bathke's salary is within the range announced by the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity—$14,000 to $17,000 a year. He declined to reveal a specific salary.

Dr. Bathke, 34, spent the 1964-65 term completing his doctorate in educational administration at the University of Nebraska.

Insured Losses On Wheat Crop Highest Since '41

Preliminary estimates show that insured losses on this year's wheat crop will be the highest since 1941, Edwin J. Finigan, Nebraska state director for the Federal Crop Insurance Corp., said Wednesday.

Finigan said major losses appeared in five eastern counties and 10 western counties as a result of winterkill and rust.

Farmers in western Nebraska are also collecting for drought and wind damage, he said.

The eastern counties were listed as Butler, Saunders, Seward, Lancaster and Saline. The western counties were Dawes, Box Butte, Sheridan, Scotts Bluff, Banner, Morrill, Garden, Kimball, Cheyenne and Deuel.

Finigan said the insured wheat losses in these counties will total nearly $2 million with about 3,500 farmers receiving indemnity payments through the federal program.

Finigan said only $1 million in premium income was collected this year.

Kolsrud Held; Staged Race With Officers

Omaha (AP)—A former Cedar Bluffs man whose wife said he threatened to kill her was held in jail here Wednesday after a foot race with officers at the municipal airport.

He is Kenneth Kolsrud, 21, who moved to California about eight months ago with his wife, Patricia.

Saunders County Sheriff Charles Sayers said Mrs. Kolsrud returned to Cedar Bluffs about a month ago to attend a funeral. She said she recently had received a threatening call from her husband, the sheriff reported.

Spotted Kolsrud In Lobby

About 11 p.m. Tuesday Sheriff Sayers and two Douglas County sheriff's deputies went to the airport where Kolsrud was expected on a flight from San Francisco. They spotted him in the lobby carrying a large box.

The officers said Kolsrud ran out of the terminal and through the parking lot. They fired a warning shot but Kolsrud ran to the street and jumped into a car which was stopped at a stop sign. The driver jumped out and Kolsrud locked the doors.

Weapons In Box

Kolsrud was forcibly removed from the car. Officers said the box he was carrying contained a 12-gauge shotgun, shells and a large knife.

He was held on a Saunders County warrant charging him with making threats, Sheriff Sayers said.

NWU Dorm To Be Named 'Plainsman'

Nebraska Wesleyan University's board of governors has picked "Plainsman Residence Hall for Men" as the name of the only unnamed dormitory on campus.

The governors selected the name to honor the accomplishments and achievements of the school's alumni. The dormitory, opened in 1962, had not been officially named until now.

Students had petitioned the board to name the dormitory in honor of the late Dr. E. Glenn Callen, long-time professor of political science and sociology.

President Vance Rogers noted that the name "Plainsman Hall" will symbolize not only "the great spirit of dedication and achievement of Dr. Callen, but of the many other outstanding alumni of Nebraska Wesleyan of the past, present, and future years.

"It is proper that we honor the alumni of Nebraska Wesleyan for the spirit of excellence, dedication, and service they have instilled in Nebraska Wesleyan, and for many accomplishments and achievements which have made this a better society.

"Plainsman Hall will stand as a symbol for the men who reside there in the years to come; a symbol of the unique challenge they face in meeting the high standards set by students who have preceded them."

Youth Drowns In State Lake

Fremont (AP)—A 17-year-old Lima, Ohio, youth, Stanley Van Dyke, drowned Wednesday afternoon at State Lake No. 9 about two miles west of Fremont.

Authorities said the boy was visiting the lake with his parents and brother who witnessed the drowning.

The mother told authorities the family heard Stanley cry for help and when they turned toward the swimming area he had disappeared.

Fremont rescue workers recovered the body from about 12 feet of water some 40 minutes later.

The drowning was the fourth of this season at the lake.

Nebraska Farm Rental Rates Up

Washington (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported Wednesday that farm cash rental rates are a little higher in most states than last year.

Of the major farm states, rental rates in Illinois increased the most, from an average of $22.85 an acre in 1964 to $25.35 this year. Other increases included: Ohio, from $15.20 to $15.60; Indiana, from $21.50 to $22.75; Iowa, from $19.50 to $20.75; Michigan from $13.25 to $13.90; Minnesota, from $15.20 to $15.60; North Dakota, from $5.35 to $5.70; Nebraska, from $11.30 to $11.70, and Kansas, from $8.55 to $8.60.

Youth Drowns In State Lake

Fremont (AP)—A 17-year-old Lima, Ohio, youth, Stanley Van Dyke, drowned Wednesday afternoon at State Lake No. 9 about two miles west of Fremont.

Authorities said the boy was visiting the lake with his parents and brother who witnessed the drowning.

The mother told authorities the family heard Stanley cry for help and when they turned toward the swimming area he had disappeared.

Fremont rescue workers recovered the body from about 12 feet of water some 40 minutes later.

The drowning was the fourth of this season at the lake.

Only For Art's Sake

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

(Note: William O. Dobler, The Star's editor, is on vacation. Today's column is by Richard C. Longworth, of United Press International.)

ROSTOV-YAROSLAVSKI, USSR — The communist government of the Soviet Union is restoring the most spectacular of this nation's churches and monasteries. Gilt onion domes, vivid religious paintings, icons of the Madonna and Child — all are being returned to mint condition with scrupulous attention to the detail provided by the merchants and monks who built them hundreds of years ago.

This major campaign has nothing to do with religion. All but a handful of the churches are barred to any form of religious service and most of the big monasteries are museums. Rather the campaign seems to have two aims: (1) a genuine desire to preserve architectural treasures of ancient Russia, both for their own value and to give the stereotyped modern Soviet cities a hint of style and grace, and (2) to lure tourists, who find the exotic beauty of the old Russian Orthodox churches a welcome relief after tours of housing estates and tractor factories. Two centers of restoration are this ancient town —its name means "Rostov-The-Great"— and nearby Yaroslavl, both about 1,000 years old.

No Religious Motive

Rostov boasts a spectacular kremlin, or citadel, an ensemble of 17th Century cathedrals and belltowers linked by a covered arcade and surrounded by a white brick wall generously perforated with holes once used to pour boiling oil on invaders. The restoration, spurred by a violent windstorm that toppled several onion domes in 1953, began in earnest this decade when the Moscow-Rostov-Yaroslavl road was opened to tourists.

"Look at these religious paintings," said Mikhail Kulikov, the burly communist director of the local kremlin. "The painters have restored them so well that it would seem they were inspired by religion — but of course they are atheists."

The paintings, as restored by Kulikov's non-believing artists, are breathtaking. In sweeping colorful murals, they climb walls and vault across ceilings to depict the Crucifixion, heaven (populated by orthodox believers) and hell (containing everybody else).

Heavy scaffolding testifies to the attempts to restore the buildings themselves to their 17th Century grandeur. The blue, green and gold domes glisten, and the crosses on top of every dome are newly shined.

Kulikov's spiel for tourists, like those in most tours, is almost entirely stripped of propaganda. The murals are revered as art, and the religious impulses that drove ancient Russians to paint them are neither praised, condemned — nor mentioned.

But one odd point — that the merchants used church basements to store gold "stolen" from the workers — is a recurring theme in the tours. Before the 1917 revolution, Yaroslavl had 150 churches for its 100,000 people. Today it has 75 churches for 500,000 people and only one of them is allowed to hold services.

Some, including the mammoth Dolgski monastery on the Volga River near the city, are used as storehouses for grain. Others stand closed and crumbling. Some, like the white stone palace that once housed the Metropolitan of Yaroslavl, are put to other uses, such as schools. But many, near ruin only a few years ago, are being restored and turned into museums or architectural monuments.

The city's prize, the Spaso-Preobrazhenski monastery, was founded in the 13th century and contains murals dating back to the 15th Century. Today it is a museum containing a good provincial art gallery, with pre-revolutionary and post-revolutionary paintings hanging side by side —a contrast hardly favorable to the "socialist realist" artists of Josef Stalin's time. Nearby, on a square opposite the government headquarters, is the 17th Century church of Ilya the Prophet. Its seven gilt-trimmed ceramic green domes are perfect restorations as are the golden altar screen inside and the narrative murals covering every inch of the interior. The Soviet regime's devotion to the task of bringing alive Russia's history is underlined by the place of honor in the church given to two ornate canopies which Rostov once set aside for the Tsar and Tsarina, in case they should visit the town.

Seven Green Domes

Might not this restoration lead to an increase in religious interest among the Soviet people, and particularly the youth? Apparently not, according to observers here. The government obviously began its campaign only after careful thought. So far, the few "working churches" appear to attract only elderly women. And, despite the restoration, there seems to be no indication at all that Soviet citizens consider religion as anything but "the opiate of the people."

It Always Has Been This Tough

Vermont Royster, editor of the Wall Street Journal, recently laid down his pen for a period and went on a vacation, far from the madding crowd. Where he went were no newspapers, no steady beat of broadcasts that tell one the same shocking news 20 times a day. He noted how untroubled was his new world, now free from stories of crime and disaster. No shells screamed overhead. And he was happy.

But when he got back home he did what all good newsmen do. He got all the copies of his paper, issued while he was away, and leafed back through them. He found the world hadn't been tranquil at all. In fact it had been less tranquil. So he wrote a column about it, a nostalgic, comforting column.

But a fact remains. The world, as far as human beings are concerned, has always been a dreadful place, probably no worse today than ever. But communications are vastly improved and since news is the story of human conflict we are inundated with disturbing items.

It was only a few years ago during the days of the British Empire that English soldiers were shooting at or being shot at every day somewhere in an empire upon which the sun never set. But we didn't know about it. We thought it was a quiet world because the United States was not important enough to get into the strife and news coverage was not adequate enough to relay the facts. We thought we lived in a peaceful world and warfare was rather romantic because Rudyard Kipling wrote readable, one-sided books about Fuzzy Wuzzy and Gunga Din. Actually they were pretty desperate characters and their lesser people were fighting back against the better armed foreigners and temporarily losing. And hardly anyone knew about it, and cared less.

Now more efficient newspapering is covering the world and we are seeing all the ugliness of it at close range. It is driving us frantic.

Humphrey's Statement

We cannot say that Vice President Hubert Humphrey scored a total victory in his address to the National Student Association at the University of Wisconsin in which he aired his views on student sit-ins and demonstrations. No one address will put an end to them. But he did a rather good job of defining a worthy protest and set reasonable limits to demonstrations.

The vice president was on good ground when he held that public expression is essential to representative government and a free society. It will be a sorry day for the United States if the time comes when an American cannot voice an earnest objection to an administrative action.

But there is responsibility in dissent, if it is worth the name, and there is a limit to how far it should be carried.

Vice President Humphrey particularly had in mind the student protests against American action in Viet Nam.

Since we are and have been for several years engaged in Viet Nam the dissenters should have an alternative, something worthy of an "either-or" debate. Simply to be against an action is fruitless in that it would deny a fact without a better replacement. A better time to dissent would have been before we got into Viet Nam. But the students were singularly silent at that time. Now what is going on is obstructionism.

The United States entered the Viet Nam affair to fulfill its pledge to protect any untouched area that has a right to be free. The Viet Cong is an insurgent force dedicated to delivering Viet Nam to communism, to destroying the chance for free growth of Viet Nam. Our task has turned out to be more difficult than we anticipated and we are stepping it up, not to take over Viet Nam but to keep it from being taken over. If we are not prepared to honor our responsibilities there, then where would we honor them? Where are the demonstrators' answers to those facts?

$500,000,000 Windfall

Soon we all will be using coins that contain no silver.

This will not exactly be a new experience because we have long used copper pennies and five cent pieces largely made of nickel. But our dimes, quarters, half dollars and dollars have been 90 per cent silver and that is about par for the course.

In late years the country has grown so large and does so much business that silver has become impractical for coinage. There isn't enough to go around. So the national administration decided to use a cheaper and more plentiful group of metals. The replacement for the old silver pieces will be a sandwich combination of nickel and copper. They will look good, wear well and buy every bit as much as were they made of silver.

But that is not the whole story. The change has been beneficial to the U.S. Treasury. The government has always made money coining money. The cost of material and labor has been less than the monetary value of the pieces and according to ancient custom the mark-up belongs to the coiner, in this case the government.

The only exception we know of this was during colonial days when coinage was needed in one of the colonies. A silversmith was given the order to make Pine Tree shillings and he got to keep the profit. It made him wealthy. The profit is called seigniorage.

For our new coins this year the seigniorage is estimated at $500 million — a very handsome profit.

"How Could Anyone Think We Might Have Any Responsibility For What Goes On Here?"

Was Lamar Caudle Political Victim?

WASHINGTON—After Lamar Caudle, former assistant attorney general, was incarcerated in the federal penitentiary at Tallahassee, Fla., in the Dreyfus case of the Eisenhower administration, Mrs. Caudle went from her home in North Carolina to see him.

"I tried to be as gay as I could," Lamar told me afterward. "I cracked jokes and tried not to let her know that I was hurt and humiliated. But I could see how shocked she was to see me in a place like that.

"And afterwards, every time she came to see me I could see her just getting thinner and thinner, just wasting away. She waited till I got out, and then she left me.

"She waited till I got out, all the time getting thinner. And then she died."

Last week Lamar called me again. He was at his home in Wadesboro, N.C. and this time his voice was resonant and gay. President Johnson had just given him a pardon.

A good many years have passed—almost 18 to be exact—since the day I first went to see Lamar Caudle, then assistant attorney general in charge of taxes, regarding the case of Irving Sachs, the St. Louis shoe manufacturer. It was the tax fraud case which was to bring deep tragedy to his life.

Caudle was quite frank in telling me 18 years ago that he had received pressure to settle the case. The pressure, it was revealed later, had been in the form of telephone calls from Matt Connelly, Truman's appointment secretary. Later it developed that Connelly had received two suits of clothes and a top coat from Sachs.

Caudle received nothing. When the case came up for trial, Sachs pleaded guilty, which certainly indicated there had been no settlement as far as Caudle was concerned. U.S. Judge Roy Harper gave him a $40,000 fine and a suspended sentence.

Later Dwight D. Eisenhower campaigned against the Democrats with the slogan of "Communism, Corruption and Korea," and after his election faced the problem of proving corruption. The Justice Department called various grand juries —in Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis—finally ran across the Sachs tax case and the fact that Matt Connelly, Truman's secretary, had received two suits and an overcoat.

A grand jury indicted him, and in order to prove a conspiracy, threw Lamar Caudle into the indictment too. The charge against him was that he had "denied the government his best services."

Last week, however, President Johnson helped to rectify one of the greatest wrongs of the Eisenhower administration.

Accelerating Custom Is Flooding Capital With Pens

WASHINGTON — Gen. Douglas MacArthur started something when he signed the Japanese surrender with about 12 pens. The current President of the United States now uses a hundred or more for signing somewhat less important documents than the one inked in Tokyo Bay.

I don't know what else we're escalating these days, but we've escalated this official souvenir pen business to the point of nonsense. Whatever else about MacArthur that Harry Truman didn't like, he certainly took to that pen-signing bit. He brought the number up to about 20 for major bills.

Eisenhower, although himself a general, more or less stayed with the HST figure. Kennedy raised it to more than 50. Which brings us to Lyndon Johnson, who, when he sits down to sign a bill, has in front of him a veritable forest of pens held in a special rack.

He signs his name a dot at a time, and even then most of the pens never see ink. But finally, when he finishes the pens, used or not, are passed out to friendly lawmakers who place them in little frames and hang them on their walls. (This is to give visiting constituents the impression that their Congressman has a hand in great undertakings. Naturally, the value of having an official pen has been downgraded in direct proportion to the number given out.)

Some people say that this is a rubber stamp Congress. I say it is a fountain pen Congress. If this continues, some of the legislators who vote "aye" at every opportunity are going to run out of wall space.

You may think I'm kidding, but cost has become a factor at bill-signing time. Really. Recently they cut down the silver content in the pen points to save money. (Can you imagine signing an appropriation bill for two or three billion dollars and worrying about the price of the pen?).

And there is another problem that nobody has thought about yet. The President recently has taken to journeying to historically significant places for the signing of bills. For instance, the trip to Independence for the signing of the Medicare bill, which Harry Truman backed originally.

Now, 100 or so pens won't make much difference, but should the number of souvenir pens the President takes with him continue to rise, then some consideration must be given to the lifting power of Air Force One, the President's plane.

We may see a time when the President goes to the place of signing by plane but the pens are sent on ahead of him by boxcar.

And there are other dangers. Our leader may decide to sign a highway bill in the center strip of the New Jersey Turnpike. How long can he safely remain there before some careless motorist runs him down? Under conditions such as this, I should think that one pen and a hasty signature would be sufficient.

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: When I last visited my chiropodist he told me I had a fungus infection in my toenails and was in for some trouble. Well, recently the trouble started. Should a chiropodist or an M. D. treat this and how long does it take?—MRS. M. G.

Molner

Your letter raises two different points. One is control of fungus, which I'll get to in a moment. Before that: What do you suppose your chiropodist (also known as podiatrist) had in mind when he warned you?

This is the sort of thing that leaves doctors of all kinds in a quandary. When we see some ominous condition shaping up, naturally we apply all possible pressure to have the patient agree to immediate treatment.

If it is some lesser ailment, then what? The patient is inclined to wonder, or be outright suspicious, If he is told to have treatment for something that isn't, so far as he can see, bothering him. So very often a doctor does just what your chiropodist did: Tells the patient that trouble is coming, and leaves it up to the patient to decide when he wants to do something about it. You've reached that time. If you had asked your chiropodist what to do about it, you might have avoided the trouble, but you would never have known what you were avoiding.

Fungus infections of the skin (feet, hands, scalp, or elsewhere) are fairly common. Also quite stubborn. When fungus gets into the nails, considerable time is required to get rid of it because the nails grow so slowly—four to six months for complete replacement.

Only in the last few years have we had really effective medication to combat entrenched fungus infections.

One is the drug griseofulvin, which is taken by mouth. This must be prescribed in carefully measured quantities, and for safety requires periodic blood counts.

In the last few years, this drug has subdued fungus infections which in some cases had resisted all prior treatment.

But fungus, like germs of many types, comes in varieties and what easily stops one kind may fail against another.

Hence a new drug (a solution containing a chemical called tolnaftate) is a welcome addition. It has demonstrated ability to eliminate some fungus forms which resist other methods of treatment. Tolnaftate is rubbed onto the skin or nails.

One problem is that a "fungus infection" may not always be the whole story. Sometimes additional skin trouble is present too. Most careful diagnosis is necessary in such cases, and more than one form of treatment may be required.

Stopping treatment (if a nail is involved) before the infected nail is replaced by a new, healthy one, can let the problem start to spread again, so don't be too hasty. Sometimes debridement (removal of thick, dead skin is wise, and at times a whole nail may be removed.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can a person be allergic to nylon hose? When I wear cotton anklets, my feet don't bother me, but when I wear nylons it feels as though something is crawling on my skin and my toes sting.—MRS. C. C.

Yes. Somebody turns out to be allergic to almost anything you can imagine. In your case it may not necessarily be nylon; it might also be the dye.

Dear Dr. Molner: I read about a treatment for ulcers —drinking a quart of uncooked cabbage juice daily for 30 days, and remaining on a bland diet. My family doctor said this was the method many years ago but he was not sure how effective it was. Have you heard of it?—O.T. N.

Yes, some years ago. There was experimentation, but as I recall it, the real attempt involved, as a medication, an extract from cabbage juice. Many gallons of juice were required to get a very small amount of the medication. To the best of my knowledge, the idea never proved to be effective.

Dear Dr. Molner: My podiatrist tells me I have a spur on the bottom of my big toe. Is there any way to cure this other than by surgery? It is very painful. What causes a spur? One person told me it is a form of arthritis.—MRS. M. E. L.

No, a spur has nothing to do with arthritis. Rather, it is a calcium deposit developing where a tendon joins the bone. It is the result of irritation or injury, just as scar tissue develops anywhere else.

The heel is the common place for spurs to develop but they can occur anywhere an injury affects the joining point of a tendon. In most parts of the body, such a point is not subjected to the pressure that is exerted on the bottom of the foot. After all, your whole weight rests there, so the little calcified scar presses against the sensory nerves, and pain results.

The most satisfactory remedy ordinarily is to cushion the spot with a soft rubber pad to reduce the pressure. Sometimes altering the curve of the arch, by an appropriate support, will shift the pressure enough for relief.

Surgery may be the only recourse, but it is a rather delicate task, removing the calcified lump, which is quite small, without affecting the tendon. Non-surgical methods should be tried first.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in this column whenever possible.

Love Prevails

Lincoln, Neb.

The only way to spell out communism is with a capital "M", capital "I", capital "S", capital "E", capital "R", and capital "Y" — MISERY.

On the other hand, love, not hate, shall move mountains and "hate" appears to be communism's middle name. Since misery loves company, they have adopted the song of hate as their theme song. They sell it, they sing it and act it throughout the whole wide world of adults. It takes no thought to sing the song of hate, but it takes initiative and the everyday kind of courage to sing the song of love.

The magic word, "United," is our theme song. The "United" States of America represents our heritage handed down to us by our forefathers. "United" was our forefather's song of love, too, ever since they landed on Plymouth Rock so long ago. They had their times of triumph and times of anguish and times of toil and hardships.

Therefore, life without love is like love without God. Love shall and will prevail. So simple and yet so true.

Davey Team

Lincoln, Neb.

This is to say "thank you" to a lot of fine folks in the Davey area, and especially to 18 young girls who made up the Davey girls' softball team.

When they asked me to be their coach, I frankly wondered if I would have the time to work with them, but their spirit to learn and enthusiasm to play was contagious and I found myself taking the time needed. Any teacher's job is that much easier when the pupils want to learn.

At our first game, I realized how much I hadn't taught them, so we began to work harder. I was learning as much about coaching as the girls were about playing ball as a team. When we played our last game and won it, I was very happy— not for myself but for the girls because now they knew what it was like to win as well as lose.

The season is over for this year. I take this opportunity to thank each and every one of the girls for the chance to work with them, and to express my heartfelt gratitude for the token of appreciation they gave me.

Let's also thank the merchants of Davey who helped us out by their various donations, and the ever-patient mothers and fathers who helped drive the girls to and from games and who were generous with their time and money to provide those extras that make ball-playing the fun it is. And most important, let's thank our opponents who gave us a chance to play competitively as a team.

I had a lot of fun and hope the girls did, too. We look forward to next year and a brand new season.

Out Of The Jungle

Tekamah, Neb.

A news commentator in reporting that the Beatles were back stated that of the 55,000 female teenagers attending their opening show in New York, none could hear the music of their objects of worship because of their own squealing and screaming.

There was a time when most girls in this age group could be referred to as young ladies. Quite obviously, much if not all that term's traditional significance would be lost if it were to be now used so indiscriminately.

Perhaps if the parents of these imitators of idiots, those at least who still place some value on such civilized concepts as poise, dignity, purpose, logic and reason were to take the following or somewhat similar corrective action, it might help. Confine the emotionally unstable subject to her room for not less than one hour per day for at least one week. Instruct her to play only Beatle records and then to squeal and scream for the full time of confinement. It might help also if she were forced to view herself in a mirror while she was doing it.

Surely there are many teenagers who recognize the need to move away from the jungle rather than back into it. Perhaps an organization under some such title as "Teenagers for Common-Sense Conduct" would help them to disassociate themselves from those who seem to have nothing between their ears except an excessive head of hair. Who knows? If established on a national level, it might even cause some of them to acquire some sense of purpose and direction.

Where he went were no newspapers, no steady beat of broadcasts that tell one the same shocking news 20 times a day. He noted how untroubled was his new world, how free from stories of crime and disaster. No shells screamed overhead. And he was happy.

But when he got back home he did what all good newsmen do. He got all the copies of his paper, issued while he was away, and leafed back through them. He found the world hadn't been tranquil at all. In fact it had been less tranquil. So he wrote a column about it, a nostalgic, comforting column.

But a fact remains. The world, as far as human beings are concerned, has always been a dreadful place, probably no worse today than ever. But communications are vastly improved and since news is the story of human conflict we are inundated with disturbing items.

It was only a few years ago during the days of the British Empire that English soldiers were shooting at or being shot at every day somewhere in an empire upon which the sun never set. But we didn't know about it. We thought it was a quiet world because the United States was not important enough to get into the strife and news coverage was not adequate enough to relay the facts. We thought we lived in a peaceful world and warfare was rather romantic because Rudyard Kipling wrote readable, one-sided books about Fuzzy Wuzzy and Gunga Din. Actually they were pretty desperate characters and their lesser people were fighting back against the better armed foreigners and temporarily losing. And hardly anyone knew about it, and cared less.

Now more efficient newspapering is covering the world and we are seeing all the ugliness of it at close range. It is driving us frantic.

Humphrey's Statement

We cannot say that Vice President Hubert Humphrey scored a total victory in his address to the National Student Association at the University of Wisconsin in which he aired his views on student sit-ins and demonstrations. No one address will put an end to them. But he did a rather good job of defining a worthy protest and set reasonable limits to demonstrations.

The vice president was on good ground when he held that public expression is essential to representative government and a free society. It will be a sorry day for the United States if the time comes when an American cannot voice an earnest objection to an administrative action.

But there is responsibility in dissent, if it is worth the name, and there is a limit to how far it should be carried.

Vice President Humphrey particularly had in mind the student protests against American action in Viet Nam.

Since we are and have been for several years engaged in Viet Nam the dissenters should have an alternative, something worthy of an "either-or" debate. Simply to be against an action is fruitless in that it would deny a fact without a better replacement. A better time to dissent would have been before we got into Viet Nam. But the students were singularly silent at that time. Now what is going on is obstructionism.

The United States entered the Viet Nam affair to fulfill its pledge to protect any untouched area that has a right to be free. The Viet Cong is an insurgent force dedicated to delivering Viet Nam to communism, to destroying the chance for free growth of Viet Nam. Our task has turned out to be more difficult than we anticipated and we are stepping it up, not to take over Viet Nam but to keep it from being taken over. If we are not prepared to honor our responsibilities there, then where would we honor them? Where are the demonstrators' answers to those facts?

$500,000,000 Windfall

Soon we all will be using coins that contain no silver.

This will not exactly be a new experience, because we have long used copper pennies and five cent pieces largely made of nickel. But our dimes, quarters, half dollars and dollars have been 90 per cent silver and that is about par for the course.

In late years the country has grown so large and does so much business that silver has become impractical for coinage. There isn't enough to go around. So the national administration decided to use a cheaper and more plentiful group of metals. The replacement for the old silver pieces will be a sandwich combination of nickel and copper. They will look good, wear well and buy every bit as much as were they made of silver.

But that is not the whole story. The change has been beneficial to the U.S. Treasury. The government has always made money coining money. The cost of material and labor has been less than the monetary value of the pieces and according to ancient custom the mark-up belongs to the coiner, in this case the government.

The only exception we know of this was during colonial days when coinage was needed in one of the colonies. A silversmith was given the order to make Pine Tree shillings and he got to keep the profit. It made him wealthy. The profit is called seigniorage.

For our new coins this year the seigniorage is estimated at $500 million — a very handsome profit.

Was Lamar Caudle Political Victim?

WASHINGTON—After Lamar Caudle, former assistant attorney general, was incarcerated in the federal penitentiary at Tallahassee, Fla., in the Dreyfus case of the Eisenhower administration, Mrs. Caudle went from her home in North Carolina to see him.

"I tried to be as gay as I could," Lamar told me afterward. "I cracked jokes and tried not to let her know that I was hurt and humiliated. But I could see how shocked she was to see me in a place like that.

"And afterwards, every time she came to see me I could see her just getting thinner and thinner, just wasting away. She waited till I got out, and then she left me.

"She waited till I got out, all the time getting thinner. And then she died."

Last week Lamar called me again. He was at his home in Wadesboro, N.C. and this time his voice was resonant and gay. President Johnson had just given him a pardon.

A good many years have passed—almost 18 to be exact—since the day I first went to see Lamar Caudle, then assistant attorney general in charge of taxes, regarding the case of Irving Sachs, the St. Louis shoe manufacturer. It was the tax fraud case which was to bring deep tragedy to his life.

Caudle was quite frank in telling me 18 years ago that he had received pressure to settle the case. The pressure, it was revealed later, had been in the form of telephone calls from Matt Connelly, Truman's appointment secretary. Later it developed that Connelly had received two suits of clothes and a top coat from Sachs.

Caudle received nothing. When the case came up for trial, Sachs pleaded guilty, which certainly indicated there had been no settlement as far as Caudle was concerned. U.S. Judge Roy Harper gave him a $40,000 fine and a suspended sentence.

Later Dwight D. Eisenhower campaigned against the Democrats with the slogan of "Communism, Corruption and Korea," and after his election faced the problem of proving corruption. The Justice Department called various grand juries—in Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis—finally ran across the Sachs tax case and the fact that Matt Connelly, Truman's secretary, had received two suits and an overcoat.

A grand jury indicted him, and in order to prove a conspiracy, threw Lamar Caudle into the indictment too. The charge against him was that he had "denied the government his best services."

Last week, however, President Johnson helped to rectify one of the greatest wrongs of the Eisenhower administration.

Accelerating Custom Is Flooding Capital With Pens

WASHINGTON — Gen. Douglas MacArthur started something when he signed the Japanese surrender with about 12 pens. The current President of the United States now uses a hundred or more for signing somewhat less important documents than the one inked in Tokyo Bay.

I don't know what else we're escalating these days, but we've escalated this official souvenir pen business to the point of nonsense. Whatever else about MacArthur that Harry Truman didn't like, he certainly took to that pen-signing bit. He brought the number up to about 20 for major bills.

Eisenhower, although himself a general, more or less stayed with the HST figure. Kennedy raised it to more than 50. Which brings us to Lyndon Johnson, who, when he sits down to sign a bill, has in front of him a veritable forest of pens held in a special rack.

He signs his name a dot at a time, and even then most of the pens never see ink. But, finally, when he finishes, the pens, used or not, are passed out to friendly lawmakers who place them in little frames and hang them on their walls. (This is to give visiting constituents the impression that their Congressman has a hand in great undertakings. Naturally, the value of having an official pen has been downgraded in direct proportion to the number given out.)

Some people say that this is a rubber-stamp Congress. I say it is a fountain-pen Congress. If this continues, some of the legislators who vote "aye" at every opportunity are going to run out of wall space.

You may think I'm kidding, but cost has become a factor at bill-signing time. Really. Recently they cut down the silver content in the pen points to save money. (Can you imagine signing an appropriation bill for two or three billion dollars and worrying about the price of the pen?).

And there is another problem that nobody has thought about yet. The President recently has taken to journeying to historically significant places for the signing of bills. For instance, the trip to Independence for the signing of the Medicare bill, which Harry Truman backed originally.

Now, 100 or so pens won't make much difference, but should the number of souvenir pens the President takes with him continue to rise, then some consideration must be given to the lifting power of Air Force One, the President's plane.

We may see a time when the President goes to the place of signing by plane but the pens are sent on ahead of him by boxcar.

And there are other dangers. Our leader may decide to sign a highway bill in the center strip of the New Jersey Turnpike. How long can he safely remain there before some careless motorist runs him down? Under conditions such as this, I should think that one pen and a hasty signature would be sufficient.

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: When I last visited my chiropodist he told me I had a fungus infection in my toenails and was in for some trouble. Well, recently the trouble started. Should a chiropodist or an M. D. treat this and how long does it take? —MRS. M. G.

Molner

Your letter raises two different points. One is control of fungus, which I'll get to in a moment. Before that: What do you suppose your chiropodist (also known as podiatrist) had in mind when he warned you?

This is the sort of thing that leaves doctors of all kinds in a quandary. When we see some ominous condition shaping up, naturally we apply all possible pressure to have the patient agree to immediate treatment.

If it is some lesser ailment, then what? The patient is inclined to wonder, or be outright suspicious, If he is told to have treatment for something that isn't, so far as he can see, bothering him. So very often a doctor does just what your chiropodist did: Tells the patient that trouble is coming, and leaves it up to the patient to decide when he wants to do something about it. You've reached that time. If you had asked your chiropodist what to do about it, you might have avoided the trouble, but you would never have known what you were avoiding.

Fungus infections of the skin (feet, hands, scalp, or elsewhere) are fairly common. Also quite stubborn. When fungus gets into the nails, considerable time is required to get rid of it because the nails grow so slowly—four to six months for complete replacement.

Only in the last few years have we had really effective medication to combat entrenched fungus infections.

One is the drug griseofulvin, which is taken by mouth. This must be prescribed in carefully measured quantities, and for safety requires periodic blood counts.

In the last few years, this drug has subdued fungus infections which in some cases had resisted all prior treatment.

But fungus, like germs of many types, comes in varieties and what easily stops one kind may fail against another.

Hence a new drug (a solution containing a chemical called tolnaftate) is a welcome addition. It has demonstrated ability to eliminate some fungus forms which resist other methods of treatment. Tolnaftate is rubbed onto the skin or nails.

One problem is that a "fungus infection" may not always be the whole story. Sometimes additional skin trouble is present too. Most careful diagnosis is necessary in such cases, and more than one form of treatment may be required.

Stopping treatment (if a nail is involved) before the infected nail is replaced by a new, healthy one, can let the problem start to spread again, so don't be too hasty. Sometimes debridement (removal of thick, dead skin is wise, and at times a whole nail may be removed.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can a person be allergic to nylon hose? When I wear cotton anklets, my feet don't bother me, but when I wear nylons it feels as though something is crawling on my skin and my toes sting.—MRS. C. C.

Yes. Somebody turns out to be allergic to almost anything you can imagine. In your case it may not necessarily be nylon; it might also be the dye.

Dear Dr. Molner: I read about a treatment for ulcers—drinking a quart of uncooked cabbage juice daily for 30 days, and remaining on a bland diet. My family doctor said this was the method many years ago but he was not sure how effective it was. Have you heard of it?—O.T. N.

Yes, some years ago. There was experimentation, but as I recall it, the real attempt involved, as a medication, an extract from cabbage juice. Many gallons of juice were required to get a very small amount of the medication. To the best of my knowledge, the idea never proved to be effective.

Dear Dr. Molner: My podiatrist tells me I have a spur on the bottom of my big toe. Is there any way to cure this other than by surgery? It is very painful. What causes a spur? One person told me it is a form of arthritis.—MRS. M. E. L.

No, a spur has nothing to do with arthritis. Rather, it is a calcium deposit developing where a tendon joins the bone. It is the result of irritation or injury, just as scar tissue develops anywhere else.

The heel is the common place for spurs to develop, but they can occur anywhere an injury affects the joining point of a tendon. In most parts of the body, such a point is not subjected to the pressure that is exerted on the bottom of the foot. After all, your whole weight rests there, so the little calcified scar presses against the sensory nerves, and pain results.

The most satisfactory remedy ordinarily is to cushion the spot with a soft rubber pad to reduce the pressure. Sometimes altering the curve of the arch, by an appropriate support, will shift the pressure enough for relief.

Surgery may be the only recourse, but it is a rather delicate task, removing the calcified lump, which is quite small, without affecting the tendon. Non-surgical methods should be tried first.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in this column whenever possible.

Love Prevails

Lincoln, Neb.

The only way to spell out communism is with a capital "M", capital "I", capital "S", capital "E", capital "R", and capital "Y" — MISERY.

On the other hand, love, not hate, shall move mountains and "hate" appears to be communism's middle name. Since misery loves company, they have adopted the song of hate as their theme song. They sell it, they sing it and act it throughout the whole wide world of adults. It takes no thought to sing the song of hate, but it takes initiative and the everyday kind of courage to sing the song of love.

The magic word, "United," is our theme song. The "United" States of America represents our heritage handed down to us by our forefathers. "United" was our forefather's song of love, too, ever since they landed on Plymouth Rock so long ago. They had their times of triumph and times of anguish and times of toil and hardships.

Therefore, life without love is like love without God. Love shall and will prevail. So simple and yet so true.

Davey Team

Lincoln, Neb.

This is to say "thank you" to a lot of fine folks in the Davey area, and especially to 18 young girls who made up the Davey girls' softball team.

When they asked me to be their coach, I frankly wondered if I would have the time to work with them, but their spirit to learn and enthusiasm to play was contagious and I found myself taking the time needed. Any teacher's job is that much easier when the pupils want to learn.

At our first game, I realized how much I hadn't taught them, so we began to work harder. I was learning as much about coaching as the girls were about playing ball as a team. When we played our last game and won it, I was very happy—not for myself but for the girls because now they knew what it was like to win as well as lose.

The season is over for this year. I take this opportunity to thank each and every one of the girls for the chance to work with them, and to express my heartfelt gratitude for the token of appreciation they gave me.

Let's also thank the merchants of Davey who helped us out by their various donations, and the ever-patient mothers and fathers who helped drive the girls to and from games and who were generous with their time and money to provide those extras that make ball-playing the fun it is. And most important, let's thank our opponents who gave us a chance to play competitively as a team.

I had a lot of fun and hope the girls did, too. We look forward to next year and a brand new season.

Out Of The Jungle

Tekamah, Neb.

A news commentator in reporting that the Beatles were back stated that of the 55,000 female teenagers attending their opening show in New York, none could hear the music of their objects of worship because of their own squealing and screaming.

There was a time when most girls in this age group could be referred to as young ladies. Quite obviously, much if not all that term's traditional significance would be lost if it were to be now used so indiscriminately.

Perhaps if the parents of these imitators of idiots, those at least who still place some value on such civilized concepts as poise, dignity, purpose, logic and reason, were to take the following or somewhat similar corrective action, it might help. Confine the emotionally unstable subject to her room for not less than one hour per day for at least one week. Instruct her to play only Beatle records and then to squeal and scream for the full time of confinement. It might help also if she were forced to view herself in a mirror while she was doing it.

Surely there are many teenagers who recognize the need to move away from the jungle rather than back into it. Perhaps an organization under some such title as "Teenagers for Common-Sense Conduct" would help them to disassociate themselves from those who seem to have nothing between their ears except an excessive head of hair. Who knows? If established on a national level, it might even cause some of them to acquire some sense of purpose and direction.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Earth Combination Of Good, Bad

By ROBERT PETERSON

With age we become aware that the world on is a balance between the good and the bad, the bitter and sweet the glamorous and the grim

There's a story the Neapolitans enjoy telling about how the angels made the world and presented it to the Lord for approval He congratulated them especially the way they balanced off the desirable and undesirable aspects of each inhabitable place

He had but one small complaint and asked, "What about Naples? Don't you think it's too beautiful?"

"Oh that's all right Lord," said the angels, "wait till you see the Neapolitans!"

We find a combination of the favorable and unfavorable in all earthly settings, including retirement communities whose promoters frequently use such extravagant labels, as "A Garden of Eden or "Heaven on Earth"

These colonies may have overtones of glory in the form of breathtaking scenery, cozy guest quarters, and modern facilities. But prospective residents shouldn't expect to find a dictionary definition of paradise. No place can guarantee us full contentment and gratification, and the best we can hope for is that the plus values outweigh the minus qualities which the restless human spirit is sure to find in any earthly setting

Rising numbers of physicians believe that foods rich in animal fats which we encourage children to eat may cause early cholesterol deposits on blood vessels, and lead in middle and later years to strokes, arterial blockage, and heart attacks

Even respected, conservative Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, who recently suffer an attack is beginning to wonder Writing in Geriatrics magazine, this dean of medical scribes refers to autopsies which reveal substantial atherosclerotic deposits in blood vessels of youthful war victims, and says, "Doctors have good reason to wonder if the eating of too much fat food in childhood could have started the production of the atherosclerosis"

"I wonder now if many early years of taking much cream and butter and meat fat in an effort to correct my underweight was what raised my blood cholesterol level to a point where one day, out of a clear sky I got a thrombosis of the saphenous and pelvic veins on my left side.

"Anyway, it is an interesting thought that the diseases of old age may someday be avoided by eating and drinking moderately in one's youth."

The other day I tripped over the garden hose and fell flat on my face. Nothing broke but I lay there a minute or two contemplating my stupidity and the fact that if I had been a few decades older and brittler I'd probably have broken an arm or hip

Falls continue to be a serious hazard to elders, and account for nearly seven of every 10 accidental deaths among those past 65. This is seven times the frequency for the rest of the population.

Largely because of their prevalence in the advanced age group, falls rank second only to motor vehicle accidents as a cause of accidental deaths in the U S

If you would like a booklet "Financing Your Coming Retirement" write to Robert Peterson, "Life Begins at Forty," c/o The Lincoln Star enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

Sooner or later, the watch you have is going to take more or less than 24 hours to get through the day.

This is because a watch is a small piece of machinery with parts that make other parts do things. Like slowing down, or speeding up.

Not so with Accutron. A battery sends power through a circuit to operate a tiny tuning fork. Time is kept by vibrations of this tuning fork. And the time is so accurate we guarantee monthly accuracy within 60 seconds. In fact the U.S. Government is using Accutron movements in satellites.

That really makes it a breakthrough in accurate timekeeping. Wouldn't you say?

Omaha Faces Strangulation, Sorensen Warns City Council

Omaha (AP)—Mayor A. V. Sorensen said Omaha has carried its good neighbor policy too far and "we have now come to the point where we are being used" by those who live on the city's fringes.

He made the statement at a meeting with city councilmen during which it was agreed informally that Omaha may face strangulation as adjacent towns expand.

The group also agreed with Mayor Sorensen that too many city services are being offered to fringe areas with Omaha taxpayers footing the bill.

Planning Director Alden F. Aust noted Bellevue, Papillion, La Vista, Ralston and Millard are growing.

"Strangulation of Omaha is possible in the south and west—our fastest areas of growth. This will be a real problem to avoid," he said.

Aust said that while annexation is expensive for both Omaha and adjoining towns, Omaha nevertheless must not be surrounded by smaller incorporated areas similar to those which have choked such cities as St. Louis, Cleveland and Detroit.

The problems of Omaha and other cities over the state should be recognized by the Legislature, the mayor said.

John Maahs, 14, of Rt. 7, Lincoln, added another win to his impressive list of swine showing achievements Wednesday when his Hampshire barrow was named champion market hog of the fair.

John, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Maahs has been an active exibitor since he began 4-H club work and has exhibited winning entries in major livestock shows.

Greg Crawford of Roca, another 4-H member with a lot of swine experience for his 13 years had the reserve champion market hog with a Duroc.

Greg is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Crawford.

In the sheep show the name Retzlaff was most prominent with seven purples and Marleen Retzlaff, 17, of Walton who has shown the champion market lamb for three previous consecutive years, found some strong competition coming from sister, Cheryl, 13, who won champion market lamb with a Hampshire.

Marleen, the long time winner, was the reserve champion winner with a Southdown.

"I didn't mind a bit," said Marleen as she relinquished her hold on the sheep championship to another member of the family.

The Retzlaff sisters are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Retzlaff.

As the county fair moved toward the final day Thursday most 4-H'ers had their eyes on the grand finale, the annual 4-H Purple Ribbon Show that would furnish a preview of purple ribbon winners and the completion of the showmanship winners in addition to the four top winners being named in the dress review.

Buttner Takes 5th Admendment

Omaha (AP) — Carville R. (Barney) Buttner, operator of an Omaha plumbing firm, took the fifth amendment on all questions in a proceeding Wednesday.

He said his refusal to answer questions was on the grounds his answers might incriminate him in connection with a state court criminal case. Buttner said he would be glad to answer at a later time.

Buttner was being questioned in connection with a suit filed by Ronald Abboud, Omaha real estate man, against John B. Coleman, Chicago real estate developer.

Coleman was the key figure in a rezoning case which resulted in indictment by a grand jury of Abboud, Buttner and three others.

Changes

Hollywood (UPI)—The video series "12 O'Clock High" is dropping Robert Lansing and adding Chris Robinson to the cast for next year.

'65 Banner Year For 4-H'ers

County fairs and the forthcoming Nebraska State Fair bear testimony to at least one fact—1965 has been a banner year for 4-H'ers.

Exhibits at the fairs are the results of 72,440 projects in which the 32,788 state 4-H members were enrolled. This project number is the highest in the past five years.

Although 4-H was developed primarily as a rural movement, it has spread to small towns and urban areas. Of the total 1965 membership, 22,039 are farm youngsters, 5,513 are boys and girls living in rural non-farm areas, and 5,236 are urbanites. The percentile make-up is: 29% farm boys, 38% farm girls, three per cent rural non-farm boys, 14% rural non-farm girls, three per cent urban boys, and 13% urban girls.

'65 Banner Year For 4-H'ers

County fairs and the forthcoming Nebraska State Fair bear testimony to at least one fact—1965 has been a banner year for 4-H'ers.

Exhibits at the fairs are the results of 72,440 projects in which the 32,788 state 4-H members were enrolled. This project number is the highest in the past five years.

Although 4-H was developed primarily as a rural movement, it has spread to small towns and urban areas. Of the total 1965 membership, 22,039 are farm youngsters, 5,513 are boys and girls living in rural non-farm areas, and 5,236 are urbanites. The percentile make-up is: 29% farm boys, 38% farm girls, three per cent rural non-farm boys, 14% rural non-farm girls, three per cent urban boys, and 13% urban girls.

The village store is full of school supplies these sleepy days. Summer is about over.

"As I understand it—only I don't understand it at all," says a lady with a teenage child, "they are going to teach all mathematics on a basis of 7. It has something to do with computers. Computers can't accept zero. So you can't use 10 so they picked 7."

Well, that is one thing off my back. I cannot do homework for the moppets if they are going to 7 me out.

Do not staple, pin or otherwise mutilate your child. Else he won't go through the machine.

Even the school materials are changing—a gorgeous assortment of magnetized pens, colorful staplers and transparent mending tapes.

When I was doing my hitch for the board of education, supplies were mighty simple. At school's beginning we bought a chamois pen wiper and a number of pen points. The school furnished a pen holder with a cork grip.

You put the pen point in this holder. It was a fearsome weapon. It could be stuck into another boy about an eigth of an inch, and we all qualified for Purple Hearts.

We also bought notebooks of ruled writing paper. On it we made endless circles. It was supposed to teach us to write legibly.

It was a dismal life. And I am glad my offspring live in an automated age. Typewriters and tape recorders. Computers and adding machines.

Most of the learning sawed off on me I never have used. And when I think of the agony of what "A" square was doing with "B" square! A relationship I found nothing to do with later and now have completely forgotten.

I was continually bugged by teachers who wanted to know at what point "A" would meet "B" and "C." The last two letters were rowing upstream. "A," no nitwit, was rowing downstream.

They rowed at various rates of speed. You were supposed to find out at which point they met. Rowboats that pass in the night.

Now I know that I was learning mathematics. (On the 10 basis. Today's tykes will slip the sevens to the old computer.) But I thought they meant it was important where "A," B" and "C" met.

I thought they were training me to clock rowboat regattas.

The purpose was all too abstract. And I did not get an "A" or a "B." It was all upstream for me. I got a "C" plus.

Things are picking up in the toy department — I went over there to calm down.

Lot of battery-powered, realistic, futuristic weapons to blow your fellow man to atoms. All in play, of course.

I bought the moppets some soap bubble mix.

Last time I was forever blowing bubbles, we mixed our own. Soap and water. Blew them out of a white clay pipe.

So the summer is ending on a computer note with pretty bubbles in the air.

The bright young boys and girls off to learn why we must not staple, bend or otherwise mutilate. Why a computer can chew up "7" but cannot handle a zero.

I looked all over the store but could not see a single pen wiper or pen point. What in the world do they stick each other with these days?

Turner Verifies Merger Petitions

Lancaster County Superintendent of Schools Glenn Turner Wednesday signed the order verifying the "validity and sufficiency" of petitions to merge the Panama and Norris School districts.

The petitions requesting the consolidation were signed by the school boards of Norris (160) and Panama (155) districts in accordance with Sections 79-402 of the Nebraska statutes, according to Turner.

However, William Walker, attorney for objectors to the merger, reported Wednesday that he is in the process of filing an appeal in Lancaster County District Court on the grounds that the statute covering school reorganization is unconstitutional.

"It's a vague and contradictory statute, and the Supreme Court will have to interpret it," he said.

"Our contention is that the school board of district 155 doesn't have the right to sign a legal petition that 66% of the legal voters are supposed to sign."

Walker added that "a supersedeas bond will be put up" to stay action of the merger until the final order is entered by the Supreme Court.

Supt. Turner advised that it would be up to the district court whether the actual merger can be delayed during the appeal.

Two previous merger attempts failed because fewer than the required 66% of the qualified signers' names were retained on the petitions circulated among the voters.

Dogs Hunt Enemies

Srinagar, Kashmir (AP)—An official spokesman reports Indian security forces are using dogs to hunt down infiltrators in the Indian-administered part of disputed Kashmir state. Similar tactics were used by the U.S. K9 Corps and by Japanese jungle fighters in World War II.

500 To 600 Might Die During Labor Day Weekend

Chicago (AP)—The National Safety Council estimated Wednesday between 500 and 600 persons might be killed in traffic accidents over the Labor Day weekend, summer's last long holiday.

The time covered by the estimate is 78 hours, from 6 p.m. local time Friday, Sept. 3, when many early starters will get out on the roads, to midnight Monday, Sept. 6.

If the period did not include a holiday, the council said, the toll for that many hours normally would average 440.

Scouts Find Gold

Dolgelly, Wales (AP) — Boy Scouts from London on a camping expedition found there's gold in them thar Welsh hills, but maybe not much. Exploring old mine shafts and panning river sands in hopes of making expenses for the trip, they came up with about a half ounce worth around $17.50 on their first try.

7 Children Drown

Berlin (AP) — Seven children drowned near Brandenburg in East Germany when a people's army motor launch they were riding in overturned, the official East German news agency ADN reported Wednesday.

Fairbury Industry May Shut

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Fairbury — A layoff announcement to employes was prompting considerable speculation here that the town's newest industry may be phased out this fall.

Lally Associates, Incorporated, manufacturer of thermal underwear, reportedly is contemplating the shut down. The plant, branch of an established Utica, N.Y., operation, opened early this year.

A spokesman for the Fairbury Industrial Development Association (FIDC) said attempts to hold the firm are continuing, however. Definite word is anticipated Thursday.

The company's production start had followed weeks of promotional efforts by the FIDC. Included in negotiations was extensive remodeling of the former Grainger's warehouse to Lally specifications.

Employing women sewing workers primarily, the company at one time had more than 50 persons on its payroll. The number has declined in recent weeks.

No reason has been announced for the possible closing.

NASON ON EDUCATION:

Teachers Needed For Poor Areas

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

There is a definite shortage of experienced and new teachers trained to instruct disadvantaged boys and girls.

Teachers show preference for assignments to schools where the pupils have adequate background and motivation for learning. Young teachers lack the background of experience to understand the learning problems of children from depressed areas.

President Johnson, speaking before the annual convention of the National Education Association in New York this summer, announced plans for a National Teachers Corps "of dedicated Americans" to teach youngsters in city slums and rural areas of poverty.

The $1.3 billion Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 makes long-needed funds available.

Teachers will now be trained specifically to help children who heretofore have been considered unteachable. As a part of this program, plans for special teacher-training centers have just been proposed by 11 of the country's largest city school systems in close cooperation with a number of metropolitan colleges and universities.

To Pool Knowledge

The developmental activities leading up to the present proposals have been administered through the School of Education at Northwestern University in cooperation with the Research Council of the Great Cities Program for School Improvement. The council is composed of the superintendents and school board members of the school systems in the nation's 15 largest cities.

Dr. Benjamin C. Willis, superintendent of schools in Chicago, and Dr. Samuel M. Brownell, superintendent of schools in Detroit, serve as president and vice president, respectively, of the Research Council.

It is proposed that the findings from the 11 training centers be pooled to build up a much-needed body of information regarding the social and learning problems of the underprivileged.

Each center would be housed in a school located in a disadvantage neighborhood in a city and would be staffed jointly by the school system and a cooperating college.

Case Studies

The future teacher would participate in the work of the center from the start of his teacher preparation. This would involve observation and participation in tutoring, recreation and other activities.

He would come to know the characteristics of the pupils, the parents and the community. He would also work at the center with two or three pupils at a time assigned to him as case studies. This would enable him to become acquainted firsthand with their problems — especially their learning problems.

This is an excellent approach to both the problem of helping the children and interesting the teachers to continue teaching in schools in depressed areas.

With the expected thousands of student teachers building up case studies, more will be known of the learning dren.

The satisfaction gained by the teacher through the knowledge that he has understood—and helped — even one child will inspire him to continue in the field.

Prices Go Up, But Not On Tires

Akron, Ohio (UPI)—If automobile tires were sold by the pound like meat and potatoes, any thrifty housewife would pronounce them one of today's best bargains.

The price per pound of tires has fallen from $1.67 in the days of the 1922 Hupmobile to $1.16 for the 1965 models, according to researchers at Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

Turner Verifies Merger Petitions

Lancaster County Superintendent of Schools Glenn Turner Wednesday signed the order verifying the "validity and sufficiency" of petitions to merge the Panama and Norris School districts.

The petitions requesting the consolidation were signed by the school boards of Norris (160) and Panama (155) districts in accordance with Sections 79-402 of the Nebraska statutes, according to Turner.

However, William Walker attorney for objectors to the merger, reported Wednesday that he is in the process of filing an appeal in Lancaster County District Court on the grounds that the statute covering school reorganization is unconstitutional.

"It's a vague and contradictory statute, and the Supreme Court will have to interpret it," he said.

"Our contention is that the school board of district 155 doesn't have the right to sign a legal petition that 66% of the legal voters are supposed to sign."

Walker added that "a supersedeas bond will be put up" to stay action of the merger until the final order is entered by the Supreme Court.

Supt. Turner advised that it would be up to the district court whether the actual merger can be delayed during the appeal.

Two previous merger attempts failed because fewer than the required 66% of the qualified signers' names were retained on the petitions circulated among the voters.

Dogs Hunt Enemies

Srinagar, Kashmir (AP) — An official spokesman reports Indian security forces are using dogs to hunt down infiltrators in the Indian-administered part of disputed Kashmir state. Similar tactics were used by the U.S. K9 Corps and by Japanese jungle fighters in World War II.

500 To 600 Might Die During Labor Day Weekend

Chicago (AP) — The National Safety Council estimated Wednesday between 500 and 600 persons might be killed in traffic accidents over the Labor Day weekend, summer's last long holiday.

The time covered by the estimate is 78 hours, from 6 p.m. local time Friday, Sept. 3, when many early starters will get out on the roads, to midnight Monday, Sept. 6.

If the period did not include a holiday, the council said, the toll for that many hours normally would average 440.

Scouts Find Gold

Dolgelly, Wales (AP) — Boy Scouts from London on a camping expedition found there's gold in them thar Welsh hills but maybe not much. Exploring old mine shafts and panning river sands in hopes of making expenses for the trip, they came up with about a half ounce worth around $17.50 on their first try.

Fairbury Industry May Shut

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Fairbury — A layoff announcement to employes was prompting considerable speculation here that the town's newest industry may be phased out this fall.

Lally Associates, Incorporated, manufacturer of thermal underwear, reportedly is contemplating the shut down. The plant, branch of an established Utica, N.Y. operation, opened early this year.

A spokesman for the Fairbury Industrial Development Association (FIDC) said attempts to hold the firm are continuing, however. Definite word is anticipated Thursday.

The company's production start had followed weeks of promotional efforts by the FIDC. Included in negotiations was extensive remodeling of the former Grainger's warehouse to Lally specifications.

Employing women sewing workers primarily, the company at one time had more than 50 persons on its payroll. The number has declined in recent weeks.

No reason has been announced for the possible closing.

COFFEE

was a 'hail and farewell' affair

The members of the Officers Wives Club at the Lincoln Air Force Base held their monthly 'hail and farewell' coffee on Wednesday morning at the Officers Club. The 'hail', of course involves the newcomers at LAFB, and it goes without saying that the farewell is for those officers' wives who soon will be leaving for wherever their husbands' new assignments take them.

ABBY

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am probably old enough to be your mother, but I am seeking advice on a problem that is almost too silly for words. On our block is a woman known as "The Visitor." She stops at your house with a bunch or some "goodies" she has baked. Anything, just to get into your house. Once she's in, your day is shot. She stays until your husband comes home for supper. The only way I have been able to get rid of her is to tell her that I have an appointment (doctor, dentist, a meeting). Then I have to get all dressed up and actually drive off in my car.

My husband says I am a ninny to go to all this bother. But, Abby, I can't hurt this lady's feelings, as some others have, by telling her I haven't time for her. But how on earth do I get rid of her? She's not a bad soul and she is very sensitive.

SOFT-HEARTED

DEAR SOFT: Your neighbor is "sensitive" only to her OWN feelings, which in plain English is selfishness. Quit going through the motions of keeping an appointment you don't have and tell The Visitor (as gently as possible) that you don't have as much free time to visit as she.

DEAR ABBY: There is a bachelor (more appropriately a recent widower) who is enjoying a burst of popularity as the "extra man" on the guest list of many hostesses in our town. Since the number of extra women outnumbers the men, when he is invited to a dinner party, the hostess usually has a partner in mind for him.

This man accepts willingly, and then adds, "Do you mind if I bring my own lady?" Of course, no proper hostess will say she minds, even if she does.

Invariably his "lady" is much younger than the other ladies present, and she doesn't fit in very well. How can this situation be tactfully handled?

ONE HOSTESS

DEAR ONE: Are you inviting this man because he is your friend and you want to entertain him? If so, let him bring whom he will. But if you want only a "male" to fill out your table, or hope to "mate" him with one of your unattached female friends, level with him and see what happens.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FIGHTING MAD" AT OBERLIN: "Property is the fruit of labor; property is desirable; it is a positive good in the world. That some should be rich shows that others may become rich, and hence is just encouragement to industry and enterprise.

"Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him work diligently and build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built."

BRIDE

at afternoon service

Miss Karen Mary Ericson of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Ericson, Alcester, S.D., became the bride of Junior Harris Lewis, son of Mrs. O. H. Lewis of Kansas City, Mo., and the late Mr. Lewis, on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 15. The 2:30 o'clock service was solemnized by Elder Ellis H. Colson of Hastings, Minn., at the Nathaniel Lutheran Church in Alcester.

As the matron of honor, Mrs. LeRoy Colson of Lincoln, wore an Empire frock in olive green satin. Costumed identically in canary yellow were Miss Marilyn Zimmerman, Hawarden, Iowa, the bridesmaid; and and the bridesmatrons, Mrs. Roger Quast, Ellendale, N.D. and Mrs. Roger Eden, Sioux City.

Rodney Fulbright, Lincoln, served as best man, and the ushers were Richard Rose, Kansas City; Milo Payne, Lincoln; and David Wolkowitz, Des Moines.

The bride's gown of white peau de soie was designed in the period mode. Narrow piping of the silk edged the squared neckline and elbow sleeves, and the wide skirt was tufted with small fabric roses and continued into a cotillion train. She carried a cascade of pale yellow roses and stephanotis.

Mr. Lewis, a student at Union College, and his bride will live in Lincoln, at 3505 So. 48th. A graduate of Union College, the bride is a member of the nursing staff at Bryan Memorial Hospital.

Shower

Honoring Miss Mary Zadina, whose marriage to Mike Dragoo will be an event of Saturday, Aug. 28, Mrs. Ron Harris, Mrs. Richard Spellman and Mrs. Richard Peters entertained recently at a kitchen shower held at the home of Mrs. Harris.

TALK

of the town

This morning we can make an announcement that we have been keeping on ice for the past several weeks. There was no hush-hush reason for not telling what we know—it certainly has been no secret—It simply was a matter of when—and where.

So now we can tell you that the marriage of Mrs. Irene Welsher Neighbors of Scottsbluff, widow of the late Mr. Neighbors, to Howard Hadley of Lincoln took place on Wednesday morning, Aug. 25.

The ceremony was solemnized at the Church of St. James By The Sea, Episcopal, in La Jolla, Calif.

Upon their return from a trip to Hawaii Mr. and Mrs. Hadley will reside at 2880 Laurel, in Lincoln, and plan to be at home there after Sept. 15.

Mention of a wedding reminds us that Mrs. E. J. Fleetwood of Claremont, Calif., has arrived in Lincoln and is the house guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Flavel Wright. Mrs. Fleetwood will remain until after the wedding of her grandson, William Wright, and Miss Susan Cole which will take place on Thursday, Sept. 9.

Thumbing through our Labor Day weekend guest list we found that names of Mr. and Mrs. Harry MacLean of Denver, who will arrive on Sept. 3 for a Friday-to-Monday stay as the guests of Mr. MacLean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James MacLean.

On Sunday, Sept. 5, Mr. and Mrs. MacLean will compliment their son and daughter-in-law when they entertain at luncheon at the Lincoln Country Club.

Guests arrive—and guests depart—We have in mind Debbie ans Tish Palmer, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Palmer of Greenwich, Conn., who spent a portion of the summer as the guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams. Mrs. Palmer arrived from Connecticut last mid-week and accompanied her daughters home on Saturday.

GUEST

is former resident

A visitor in Lincoln this week is former resident, Miss Pam Chafin, who is the houseguest of former University High classmate, Miss Malenna Gabel, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Gabel.

From Lincoln, Pam will go to Stephenville, Tex., where she will enter Tarleton State College. Malenna will be a freshman this fall at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

NASON ON EDUCATION:

Teachers Needed For Poor Areas

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

There is a definite shortage of experienced and new teacher. trained to instruct disadvantaged boys and girls.

Teachers show preference for assignments to schools where the pupils have adequate background and motivation for learning. Young teachers lack the background or experience to understand the learning problems of children from depressed areas.

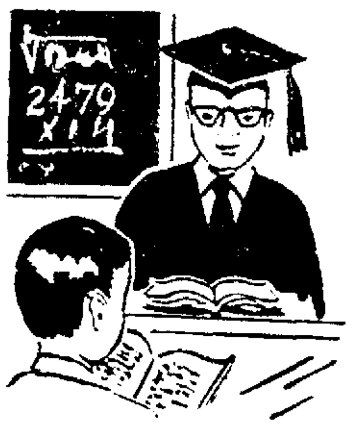
President Johnson, speaking before the annual convention of the National Education Association in New York this summer, announced plans for a National Teachers Corps "of dedicated Americans" to teach youngsters in city slums and rural areas of poverty.

The $1.3 billion Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 makes long-needed funds available.

Teachers will now be trained specifically to help children who heretofore have been considered unteachable. As a part of this program, plans for special teacher-training centers have just been proposed by 11 of the country's largest city school systems in close cooperation with a number of metropolitan colleges and universities.

To Pool Knowledge

The developmental activities leading up to the present proposals have been administered through the School of Education at Northwestern University in cooperation with the Research Council of the Great Cities Program for School Improvement. The council is composed of the superintendents and school board members of the school systems in the nation's 15 largest cities.



Dr. Benjamin C. Willis, superintendent of schools in Chicago, and Dr. Samuel M. Brownell, superintendent of schools in Detroit, serve as president and vice president, respectively, of the Research Council.

It is proposed that the findings from the 11 training centers be pooled to build up a much-needed body of information regarding the social and learning problems of the underprivileged.

Each center would be housed in a school located in a disadvantage neighborhood in a city and would be staffed jointly by the school system and a cooperating college.

Case Studies

The future teacher would participate in the work of the center from the start of his teacher preparation. This would involve observation and participation in tutoring, recreation and other activities.

He would come to know the characteristics of the pupils, the parents and the community. He would also work at the center with two or three pupils at a time assigned to him as case studies. This would enable him to become acquainted firsthand with their problems — especially their learning problems.

This is an excellent approach to both the problem of helping the children and interesting the teachers to continue teaching in schools in depressed areas.

With the expected thousands of student teachers building up case studies, more will be known of the learning dren.

The satisfaction gained by the teacher through the knowledge that he has understood—and helped — even one child will inspire him to continue in the field.

Prices Go Up, But Not On Tires

Akron, Ohio (UPI)—If automobile tires were sold by the pound like meat and potatoes, any thrifty housewife would pronounce them one of today's best bargains.

The price per pound of tires has fallen from $1.67 in the days of the 1922 Hupmobile to $1.16 for the 1965 models, according to researchers at Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

HER marriage announced

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Gartner of Unadilla, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Nancy, to Valgene Petersen, son of Mrs. Steve Stribling of Nebraska City, and of Harvey Petersen, Wichita, Kan.

The service was solemnized at 6:30 o'clock, Friday evening, Aug. 20, at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Waterville, Kan.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kirchhoff of Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Petersen will live in Lincoln, at 1136 So. 11th.

Wedding

White gladioli and chrysanthemums decorated the candlelighted chancel of the First Presbyterian Church at Hastings, Saturday afternoon, Aug. 21, for the wedding of Miss Mary Jo McCune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. McCune, Hastings, and Gordon S. Morrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Morrow of Kearney. The Rev. Robert S. Moorhead, uncle of the bride, read the lines of the 4 o'clock service.

As her sister's maid of honor and only attendant, Miss Janet McCune of Lincoln, appeared in an Empire frock of leaf green linen sashed with velvet. She carried white chrysanthemums and ivy, and wore a circlet of the blossoms in her hair.

Serving as best man was Gary Lambert of Kearney, and the ushers were John Carlson of Minden; Ben Porter and John Nicholson, Kearney.

The bride selected delustered satin in traditional white for her wedding gown. A rounding neckline contoured the sculptured bodice, and the skirt of controlled fullness, detailed with trapunto embroidery, continued into a chapel train. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a satin pillbox cap, and her cascade bouquet was fashioned of white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrow are graduates of the University of Nebraska, where the bridegroom is a member of Phi Gamma Delta. Mrs. Morrow, a member of Gamma Phi Beta, received her Masters degree from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., and has been an instructor in speech pathology at the University of Nebraska.

NEWS of suburban areas

If you're having trouble getting in touch with friends and neighbors lately it might be that those sought after souls are at the local shopping center buying the necessary back-to-school items for the youngsters.

With camps closed for the winter and vacationers returning there is little chance that your friends are off on a week's jaunt to one place or the other. But, then again we do have news of vacationers in the Park Manor area — so who knows where anyone is right now. But we do know that it is a busy time, as usual, in the suburban areas.

PARK MANOR

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Theobald, Linda and Patti, are recent vacation returnees. The foursome left late last week for Newton, Kan., where they visited with friends — namely, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Williams. After a short stop in Newton, the four continued on the southern route as they made their second stop in Paris, Tex. In Paris —and that's Texas, by the way — Mr. and Mrs. Theobald and their two traveling companions were the house guests of former Lincoln residents and also former neighbors of the Theobalds, Mr. and Mrs. James Chester. The last stop-off for the traveling foursome was Dallas, Tex. and then it was time to head for home.

For social news in the Park Manor area, we can tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Don Forke have house guests this week. The visitors are Mrs. Forke's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Brooks and their five children. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks and their family will spend about three weeks visiting friends and relatives in the Lincoln area before returning to their home in Madrid, Spain. Mr. Brooks is associated with an American pharmaceutical company in Madrid.

Aside from entertaining visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Forke are also awaiting the arrival of their daughter, Kim, who has spent the past six weeks in Colorado. Kim and her friend, Jill Becker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Becker, will arrive in Lincoln tonight via train. In Colorado the two campers were located at San Born Western Camp in Florissant, Colo. — and if that doesn't sound very familiar to you we might say that Florissant is near Colorado Springs, Colo. The six-week camp offered the usual entertainment plus many extras —so we hear. The entire group of campers was taken on a tour of the Great Sand Dunes National Park, Aspen skiing area, where each took a chairlift ride, the Broadmoor Zoo, and while at at the Broadmoor the campers did a little ice skating — believe it or not! While we are talking about their stop in Colorado Springs, we should mention the Air Force Academy tour taken by the group of adventurers. All in all we hear San Born Western Camp is a real enjoyable place to be in the summer.

This is the week when Mr. and Mrs. Alan Knox will be leaving for their new home in New York City, N.Y., where their address will be 501 W. 101 Street. Mr. Knox will be associated with the adult education program at Columbia University.

BERLENE HEIGHTS

From news of travels and of guests we now turn to some news of a birthday get-together. Mrs. Howard Fager was the celebrant, on Tuesday afternoon, when Mrs. Fager and her three daughters, Jennifer, Susan and Jill entertained at a coffee. Friends and relatives attending the afternoon gathering numbered 15 and the guest list included the celebrant's mother, Mrs. Rhen Dobbs of Beatrice and her sister, Mrs. Walter Waltke and sons, Allen and Tom.

NU Coed, Bride

The marriage of Miss Susan Ann Synak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Synak, to Douglas M. Nicoll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Nicoll, was solemnized Wednesday morning, Aug. 25, at Blessed Sacrament Church. The lines of the 10 o'clock ceremony were read by Msgr. A. J. Kraemer, and Miss Kathy Glenn, organist, played the wedding music.

Silk crepe in cotillion blue was chosen for the frocks of the attendants, who were Miss Jeannine Synak, as her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Kathy Nicoll, sister of the bridegroom. Each carried a single, long-stemmed white rose.

Serving Mr. Nicoll as best man was Jim Iwan, and seating the guests were Michael Laughlin and John Boye.

Medallion appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace trimmed the bride's gown of delustered satin in the antique white shade. The Empire basque was designed with a sabrina neckline and long sleeves, and the lace paneled skirt was completed by a Watteau train of the satin. A calot of jeweled lace held her silk illusion veil, and she carried a circle arrangement of sweetheart roses in the candlelight tone.

The bride is a student at the University of Nebraska, and Mr. Nicoll is stationed with the U.S. Marine Corps at Santa Ana, Calif.

Reunion

WHAT They're Reading

Are misspelled words a problem for any of your youngsters, if so why not invest in the six volume, color illustrated dictionary by Golden Books — it's the fun way to look up those ugly hard-to-spell words.

If you are selecting a book for a daughter may we suggest a book about horses or a fiction story with a happy ending. Thornton Burgess has written many stories about horses and other animals for the Grosset and Dunlap Publishing Company. The books are informative and enjoyable and are all fiction.

If, however, you are choosing a book for a boy, then head for the non-fiction counter and select a story wherein adventure and suspense lies. Robert Louis Stevenson's classic stories are priced below two dollars and are reportedly the favorites of boys in Lincoln. Grosset and Dunlap also publish Stevenson's classic books.

And for yourself, browse through the best-seller books and choose one such as "The Man with the Golden Gun" which is the newcomer to the fiction list this week. Ian Fleming wrote the novel shortly before his death in 1964 and "The Man with the Golden Gun" is the 13th in the James Bond series. Select a book for yourself and join your children in the reading corner of your home.

The bidding:
Opening lead—king of diamonds.

As anyone can plainly see, South should lose two hearts and a diamond and go down one. However, this is easier said than done. If the defense slips at all, South winds up making the contract.

Suppose you're West defending against five clubs doubled. Let's say you lead the king of diamonds, on which East plays the nine, and continue with the ace. Certainly the diamond continuation seems harmless, but if you were actually to make this play, South would make the contract.

Observe what happens after you play the ace of diamonds. Declarer ruffs and takes six rounds of trumps, at which point this becomes the position:

South now leads his last trump and discards a heart from dummy. Your partner, poor East, is now in bad shape. He cannot afford to discard the spade, so he discards the king of hearts. This permits South to play a low heart to the jack and claim the last three tricks.

If you consider the matter fully, you realize that it is wrong to play the ace of diamonds at trick two. If declarer has any more diamonds to lose, you are bound to get them later, and there is consequently no necessity for a second diamond lead.

What you should do is lead a spade at trick two. This is a more constructive play than a diamond. Partner bid spades and you should attack the suit at once. If you do this, South must eventually go down one.

COFFEE

was a 'hail and farewell' affair

The members of the Officers Wives Club at the Lincoln Air Force Base held their monthly 'hail and farewell' coffee on Wednesday morning at the Officers Club. The 'hail', of course involves the newcomers at LAFB, and it goes without saying that the farewell is for those officers' wives who soon will be leaving for wherever their husbands' new assignments take them

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am probably old enough to be your mother, but I am seeking advice on a problem that is almost too silly for words. On our block is a woman known as "The Visitor." She stops at your house with a bunch or some "goodies" she has baked. Anything, just to get into your house. Once she's in, your day is shot. She stays until your husband comes home for supper. The only way I have been able to get rid of her is to tell her that I have an appointment (doctor, dentist, a meeting). Then I have to get all dressed up and actually drive off in my car.

My husband says I am a ninny to go to all this bother. But, Abby, I can't hurt this lady's feelings, as some others have, by telling her I haven't time for her But how on earth do I get rid of her? She's not a bad soul and she is very sensitive

DEAR SOFT: Your neighbor is "sensitive" only to her OWN feelings, which in plain English is selfishness. Quit going through the motions of keeping an appointment you don't have and tell The Visitor (as gently as possible) that you don't have as much free time to visit as she.

DEAR ABBY: There is a bachelor (more appropriately a recent widower) who is enjoying a burst of popularity as the "extra man" on the guest list of many hostesses in our town. Since the number of extra women outnumbers the men, when he is invited to a dinner party, the hostess usually has a partner in mind for him.

This man accepts willingly, and then adds, "Do you mind if I bring my own lady?" Of course, no proper hostess will say she minds, even if she does.

Invariably his "lady" is much younger than the other ladies present, and she doesn't fit in very well. How can this situation be tactfully handled?

ONE HOSTESS

DEAR ONE: Are you inviting this man because he is your friend and you want to entertain him? If so, let him bring whom he will. But if you want only a "male" to fill out your table, or hope to "mate" him with one of your unattached female friends, level with him and see what happens.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FIGHTING MAD" AT OBERLIN: "Property is the fruit of labor; property is desirable; it is a positive good in the world. That some should be rich shows that others may become rich, and hence is just encouragement to industry and enterprise.

"Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him work diligently and build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built."

Abraham Lincoln

for the young set—and their elders

After a round of golf, a tennis match or just plain lawn mowing, everyone is starved! But they won't mind waiting for dinner when a tray of corned beef hash pizzas and a ham 'n cheese spread with crackers are set before them.

Corned beef hash pizzas and a ham 'n cheese spread are fine summertime appetizers and snacks, but these easy-made treats will make a hit any time of the year.

Top flattened and heated refrigerated rolls with a spicy, canned corned beef hash mixture, cheese, catsup and olive slices. Only a few minutes are needed to make and bake these tasty pizzas. Serve them at teen parties. They can be made at the last minute by the young hostess of the house when she chooses to impress the gang with her food fixing skills.

The ham 'n cheese spread is good make-ahead food, wonderful for spreading on crisp cucumber or carrot slices, wedges of bologna or salami, crackers or potato chips. The flavor of the cream cheese-ham mixture is enhanced by adding horseradish, mustard and onion. To top it all, there's a nut coating that supplies a pleasant crunch.

CORNED BEEF HASH PIZZAS

1 can (15½ ounce) corned beef hash
1/3 cup finely chopped onion
1/3 cup catsup
1½ teaspoons oregano

10 stuffed olives, sliced.

Combine hash, onion, 3 tablespoons catsup and oregano; mix. Roll each biscuit on a floured board to 3½ to 4-inch diameter. Place on baking sheet. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) until lightly browned, about 5 minutes. Spread biscuits with hash mixture. Return to oven and bake until heated, about 10 minutes. Crisscross two cheese strips on each pizza and top with remaining catsup. Return to oven just long enough to melt cheese. Garnish with olive slices. Yield: 10 pizzas.

HAM 'N CHEESE SPREAD

1 package (8 ounce) cream cheese, room temperature
1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon grated onion
1 cup finely chopped cooked ham
1/3 cup finely chopped nuts

Serve with assorted crackers, sliced cucumber or carrots or celery stalks. Yield: One ball, about 3½ inch diameter (1 1/3 cup).

HER

marriage announced

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Gartner of Unadilla, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Nancy, to Valgene Petersen, son of Mrs. Steve Stribling of Nebraska City, and of Harvey Petersen, Wichita, Kan.

The service was solemnized at 6:30 o'clock, Friday evening, Aug. 20, at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Waterville, Kan.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kirchhoff of Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Petersen will live in Lincoln, at 1136 So. 11th.

Wedding

White gladioli and chrysanthemums decorated the candlelighted chancel of the First Presbyterian Church at Hastings, Saturday afternoon, Aug. 21, for the wedding of Miss Mary Jo McCune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. McCune, Hastings, and Gordon S. Morrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Morrow of Kearney. The Rev. Robert S. Moorhead, uncle of the bride, read the lines of the 4 o'clock service.

As her sister's maid of honor and only attendant, Miss Janet McCune of Lincoln, appeared in an Empire frock of leaf green linen sashed with velvet. She carried white chrysanthemums and ivy, and wore a circlet of the blossoms in her hair.

Serving as best man was Gary Lambert of Kearney, and the ushers were John Carlson of Minden; Ben Porter and John Nicholson, Kearney.

The bride selected delustered satin in traditional white for her wedding gown. A rounding neckline contoured the sculptured bodice, and the skirt of controlled fullness, detailed with trapunto embroidery, continued into a chapel train. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a satin pillbox cap, and her cascade bouquet was fashioned of white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrow are graduates of the University of Nebraska, where the bridegroom is a member of Phi Gamma Delta. Mrs. Morrow, a member of Gamma Phi Beta, received her Masters degree from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., and has been an instructor in speech pathology at the University of Nebraska.

NEWS

of suburban areas

If you're having trouble getting in touch with friends and neighbors lately it might be that those sought after souls are at the local shopping center buying the necessary back-to-school items for the youngsters.

With camps closed for the winter and vacationers returning there is little chance that your friends are off on a week's jaunt to one place or the other. But, then again we do have news of vacationers in the Park Manor area — so who knows where anyone is right now. But we do know that it is a busy time, as usual, in the suburban areas.

PARK MANOR

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Theobald, Linda and Patti, are recent vacation returnees. The foursome left late last week for Newton, Kan., where they visited with friends — namely, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Williams. After a short stop in Newton, the four continued on the southern route as they made their second stop in Paris, Tex. In Paris —and that's Texas, by the way — Mr. and Mrs. Theobald and their two traveling companions were the house guests of former Lincoln residents and also former neighbors of the Theobalds, Mr. and Mrs. James Chester. The last stop-off for the traveling foursome was Dallas, Tex. and then it was time to head for home.

For social news in the Park Manor area, we can tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Don Forke have house guests this week. The visitors are Mrs. Forke's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Brooks and their five children. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks and their family will spend about three weeks visiting friends and relatives in the Lincoln area before returning to their home in Madrid, Spain. Mr. Brooks is associated with an American pharmaceutical company in Madrid.

Aside from entertaining visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Forke are also awaiting the arrival of their daughter, Kim, who has spent the past six weeks in Colorado. Kim and her friend, Jill Becker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Becker, will arrive in Lincoln tonight via train. In Colorado the two campers were located at San Born Western Camp in Florissant, Colo. — and if that doesn't sound very familiar to you we might say that Florissant is near Colorado Springs, Colo. The six-week camp offered the usual entertainment plus many extras —so we hear. The entire group of campers was taken on a tour of the Great Sand Dunes National Park, Aspen skiing area, where each took a chairlift ride, the Broadmoor Zoo, and while at at the Broadmoor the campers did a little ice skating — believe it or not! While we are talking about their stop in Colorado Springs, we should mention the Air Force Academy tour taken by the group of adventurers. All in all we hear San Born Western Camp is a real enjoyable place to be in the summer.

This is the week when Mr. and Mrs. Alan Knox will be leaving for their new home in New York City, N.Y., where their address will be 501 W. 101 Street. Mr. Knox will be associated with the adult education program at Columbia University.

BERLENE HEIGHTS

From news of travels and of guests we now turn to some news of a birthday get-together. Mrs. Howard Fager was the celebrant, on Tuesday afternoon, when Mrs. Fager and her three daughters, Jennifer, Susan and Jill entertained at a coffee. Friends and relatives attending the afternoon gathering numbered 15 and the guest list included the celebrant's mother, Mrs. Rhen Dobbs of Beatrice and her sister, Mrs. Walter Waltke and sons, Allen and Tom.

NU Coed, Bride

The marriage of Miss Susan Ann Synak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Synak, to Douglas M. Nicoll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Nicoll, was solemnized Wednesday morning, Aug. 25, at Blessed Sacrament Church. The lines of the 10 o'clock ceremony were read by Msgr. A. J. Kraemer, and Miss Kathy Glenn, organist, played the wedding music.

Silk crepe in cotillion blue was chosen for the frocks of the attendants, who were Miss Jeannine Synak, as her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Kathy Nicoll, sister of the bridegroom. Each carried a single, long-stemmed white rose.

Serving Mr. Nicoll as best man was Jim Iwan, and seating the guests were Michael Laughlin and John Boye.

Medallion appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace trimmed the bride's gown of delustered satin in the antique white shade. The Empire basque was designed with a sabrina neckline and long sleeves, and the lace paneled skirt was completed by a Watteau train of the satin. A calot of jeweled lace held her silk illusion veil, and she carried a circle arrangement of sweetheart roses in the candlelight tone.

The bride is a student at the University of Nebraska, and Mr. Nicoll is stationed with the U.S. Marine Corps at Santa Ana, Calif.

Reunion

Descendants and members of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Chapman who homesteaded near Saltillo, will hold a family reunion Sunday at Chautauqua Park in Beatrice.

Reading

Are misspelled words a problem for any of your youngsters. if so why not invest in the six volume. color illustrated dictionary by Golden Books — it's the fun way to look up those ugly hard-to-spell words.

If you are selecting a book for a daughter may we suggest a book about horses or a fiction story with a happy ending. Thornton Burgess has written many stories about horses and other animals for the Grosset and Dunlap Publishing Company. The books are informative and enjoyable and are all fiction.

If, however, you are choosing a book for a boy, then head for the non-fiction counter and select a story wherein adventure and suspense lies. Robert Louis Stevenson's classic stories are priced below two dollars and are reportedly the favorites of boys in Lincoln. Grosset and Dunlap also publish Stevenson's classic books.

And for yourself, browse through the best-seller books and choose one such as "The Man with the Golden Gun" which is the newcomer to the fiction list this week. Ian Fleming wrote the novel shortly before his death in 1964 and "The Man with the Golden Gun" is the 13th in the James Bond series. Select a book for yourself and join your children in the reading corner of your home.

The bidding:

The bidding:

Opening lead—king of diamonds.

As anyone can plainly see, South should lose two hearts and a diamond and go down one. However, this is easier said than done. If the defense slips at all, South winds up making the contract.

Suppose you're West defending against five clubs doubled. Let's say you lead the king of diamonds, on which East plays the nine, and continue with the ace. Certainly the diamond continuation seems harmless, but if you were actually to make this play, South would make the contract.

Observe what happens after you play the ace of diamonds. Declarer ruffs and takes six rounds of trumps, at which point this becomes the position:

North

West

♦ J 8

South

South now leads his last trump and discards a heart from dummy. Your partner, poor East, is now in bad shape. He cannot afford to discard the spade, so he discards the king of hearts. This permits South to play a low heart to the jack and claim the last three tricks.

If you consider the matter fully, you realize that it is wrong to play the ace of diamonds at trick two. If declarer has any more diamonds to lose, you are bound to get them later, and there is consequently no necessity for a second diamond lead.

What you should do is lead a spade at trick two. This is a more constructive play than a diamond. Partner bid spades and you should attack the suit at once. If you do this, South must eventually go down one.

Borner Birdies No. 10

. . . AT OFC

(10th of a Series)
By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

One of the problems that faces many of this country's older golf courses is the small tees that limit the mobility of tee markers to save wear and tear on the teeing areas.

But one of he oldest courses west of the Mississippi River has one of the largest tees in the world on a hole that qualifies as No. 10 on The Lincoln Star's Nebraska's Best 18.

The No. 10 tee at the Omaha Field Club, home of former U.S. Amateur and U.S. Open champion Johnny Goodman, sits on a reservoir and measures nearly 150 feet from front to back and more than 100 feet from side to side.

The Omaha Field Club along with the Omaha Country Club and the Lincoln Country Club rate as the tightest golf courses in the state because of the narrow tree-lined fairways.

The 10th hole at the Omaha Field Club, founded in 1903 and host to the National Amateur in 1941, is typical of the narrow fairways on the entire course.

The green is tucked behind trees to the right with an out of bounds fence directly behind the green and another out of bounds fence running from the tee to the green on the right.

Despite the advisability of keeping the ball to the left side of the fairway, Charlie Borner came up with the first birdie on the series when he played down the right side.

Borner's drive was on the right edge of the fairway on the par-4, 386-yard hole, leaving him 120 yards short of the green with trees partially blocking his approach.

Borner used a 7-iron to keep the ball low under the trees and hit to the back of he green.

His 16-foot putt from just on the fringe rolled in for a birdie-3, putting him back to four-over-par for the series.

Taber's drive went left and into he adjoining No. 1 fairway where he was stymied by a grove of trees. He pulled a 7-iron to the right and barely caught the collar of the right side of the green.

Taber chipped on and left himself with a nine-foot putt which he just missed at the edge of the cup for a bogey-5, putting him 10 over par.

Assistant pro Terry Crouch used a 3-wood off the tee and kept it down the middle where he had an easy 8-iron shot left to the green. His 25-foot putt for the birdie rolled by the cup on the right side. He made the one-footer coming back for the par-4, keeping the pros at only two over par.

Russell Signs Huge 3-Year Celtic Contract

Boston (AP) — Big Bill Russell, who helped build the Boston Celtics into a dynasty with his revolutionary defensive play, signed a three-year contract with the National Basketball Association's champions Wednesday for an estimated $101,000 annually.

Boston Coach and General Manager Red Auerbach told a news conference that Russell was signed "to an unprecedented three-year contract at a fantastic salary."

The 6-foot-10 Russell said he didn't think the contract was "so fantastic," but admitted that "each of the three years is in six figures."

Russell, a bearded former All-America at San Francisco who will be 32 next February, stated last week after Wilt Chamberlain had agreed to terms with the Philadelphia 76ers that he wouldn't sign if he didn't receive "at least $1 more than" the seven-foot scoring ace.

Devaney Third In Big 8 Annals

. . . WILKINSON LEADS

Kansas City (AP)—Bob Devaney of Nebraska ranks third, Missouri's Dan Devine seventh and Jack Mitchell of Kansas is No. 10 among all coaches in the 37-year history of Big Eight conference football.

The rankings, for conference games only, are headed by Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson, who won 91 league games, lost nine and tied three in 17 years. Dana Bible, coach at Nebraska in the 1930s, is next with a 33-3-4 record in league play over eight seasons.

Devaney with 18-3 for three years could move past Bible into second place only if the Huskers sweep all seven league games this fall. Bible's percentage is .875, counting ties as half won, half lost. A sweep would lift Devaney to .893, a scant five percentage points behind Wilkinson.

The Devaney career record of 63-15-5 for a .789 percentage heads the nation's active major college coaches and Devine is No. 3 nationally with 76-22-6 for .759. Mitchell's record is 29-15-3 for a .649 percentage in league play.

Devine at 33-11-3 has a four-game bulge on Mitchell in their rivalry. Their records are identical against other league foes.

The list contains some surprises. For instance, the fourth-place spot held by Dewey Luster, Oklahoma's wartime coach whose league mark was 19-4-2 for .800. Another sleeper is Missouri's wartime coach, Chauncey Simpson, with 10-3-2 for .733, good for eighth place.

Tom Stidman of Oklahoma is fifth at 15-4-1 through four seasons.

Sonny Grandelius, who left Colorado under the cloud of NCAA recruiting penalties after a 1961 title year, is sixth, 15-5 for .750. Biff Jones, with a 21-10-4 league record for seven years at Oklahoma and Nebraska is ninth.

HUNTING DATES SET

. . . Game Commission Vetoes Split Season

The State Game Commission Wednesday set a 40-day duck season from Wednesday, Oct. 20 to Nov. 28.

In so doing, the commission broke away from the split season concept.

Limits will be four daily and eight in possesion.

The daily bag limit may not include more than one mallard and one pintail. Possession of the two species would be two each.

A 75-day goose season was set to open on Friday, Oct. 1 and end Tuesday, Dec. 14.

Limits will be five in the daily bag and in possession.

Bag and possession may not include more than two Canada Geese.

The Commission set a 93-day pheasant season to run from Saturday, Oct. 23 to Jan. 23.

Bag limit will be four cocks and a possession limit of 20.

In addition, the Commission set a 16-day hen and cock season to run from Jan. 8 to Jan. 23.

The bag limit will be one hen in a four bird limit and five hens in a 20 bird possession limit.

There were two areas set for the hen season.

Hens may be hunted during those 16 days in the area east of U.S. 281 and north of N-91. and in an area south and west of a line from the South Dakota border near Gordon and running along a line consisting of highways: N-27. N-2, N-61. U.S. 30. and U.S. 283 to the Kansas border near Beaver City.

The commission set a 65-day quail season to run from Oct. 30 to Jan. 2. Bag limit will be six and possession limit 18.

The grouse season was set for 44 days to run from Sept. 18 to Oct. 31, with a bag limit of two and possession of six.

Again, the cottontail can be hunted year-around. Bag limit is 10 and possession limit is 30.

Special deer season for two days in the Gifford and DeSoto management areas and four days in the Valentine unit were set to begin Saturday, Dec. 18.

A muskrat and beaver trapping season was set to begin Nov. 15 and end March 15 and the mink trapping season was set to begin Nov. 15 and end Jan. 15.

There is no limit for either trapping season.

The rail and gallinule season was set from Oct. 2 through Dec. 10, with a daily bag limit of 15 and a possession limit of 30.

The snipe season was set for Oct. 2 through Nov. 20, with daily bag limit of 8 and possession limit of 16.

Prior to setting the seasons, the Commission held a public hearing in the West Senate Chamber.

Testimony centered on whether the duck season should be split or not, and whether there should be a season on hen pheasants.

Game Commission Director Mel Steen said the reason for the restrictive limits on pintails and mallards was because the two species are at the lowest level in history. He said there were more ducks killed than produced in 1964.

The duck limits were set previously by federal authorities.

Steen predicted increasing duck production in 1966.

State Adopts Waterways Sign System

The State Game Commission Wednesday adopted a uniform waterway marker system for Nebraska. It follows the pattern developed by the Federal Government.

The markers are used for posting speed limits, directional signs and pointing out restricted areas.

Commissioners also approved a boating regulation change that makes the boat operator, rather than the skier, responsible for rule infractions involving water skiing.

A regulation clarification providing that all children less than 12 years old must wear approved life preservers in boats was adopted, and the Commisison approved speed zones for areas of Merritt Reservoir in north-central Nebraska.

In other action, commissioners approved the purchase of 40 acres of marshland in Nucholls County. It is two miles south and two miles west of Edgar.

Attendance Records Sure For Huskers

With the Nebraska Cornhuskers set to open their 1965 fall camp next Monday, they can be assured already that their six-game home slate will be viewed by a record number of fans.

Assistant Athletic Director Jim Pittenger said Tuesday that Memorial Stadium is within "roughly 3,000 Texas Christian game tickets" of being sold out for the 1965 season.

"With the exception of the TCU game, we have more orders on hand for season and single game tickets than it would appear we will be able to fill," Pittenger said.

He added that this also applies to the Missouri game this fall at Columbia.

Pittenger said he hopes to be able to fill "the biggest majority" of season ticket orders now on hand.

Pittenger said his earlier estimate of approximately 41,000 season ticket sales appears assured at this time with 27,000 public sales, 11,000 student sales and 3,000 faculty sales.

This leaves the Huskers with approximately 10,000 tickets available for single game sales, he said.

American Golf Classic Set Today

Akron, Ohio (AP)—A field of 110 professionals and amateurs will tee off today in the fifth American Golf Classic at the Firestone Country Club.

Dave Marr, recent winner of the PGA title, and Homero Blancas, a newcomer to the pro tour, sent word Wednesday that they would be unable to compete in the 78-hole tournament which offers $100,000 prize money. The top prize is $20,000.

A tournament official said he was informed that Marr is running a fever and Blancas has come down with an attack of influenza and is in a Boston hospital.

Most of the big name professionals will compete in the Classic, which ends Sunday. The only two missing from the top 20 Professional Golfers Association money winners will be Gary Player, who is going home to South Africa, and Billy Casper, who declined an invitation.

Ken Venturi is recovering from an operation on his ailing hands and will not defend the title he won last year at Firestone's 7,165-yard, par 70 layout.

He will be back, however, as an announcer to participate in the telecast of the final four holes Sunday on ABC-TV.

Jack Nicklaus, who has won $126,000 in prize money this year, and Tony Lema, the Carling Open winner this week, are among the top U.S. entries.

The 70 low scorers after Friday's second round will compete in the final rounds Saturday and Sunday. In case of a tie at the end of 72 holes, there will be a sudden-death playoff.

Optimist Jones Has Troubles

. . . WITH OU SQUAD

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Gomer Jones, who works hard at being an optimist, has a difficult time trying to find a bright aspect to the upcoming football season.

The University of Oklahoma football coach is set to begin his second year as th head man and he has only a handful of proven players.

"We have some fine backfield material," he says. "We also have what we feel are some good sophomore prospects. If they pick up enough experience in the first three games, then we could have a good ball club by the time conference play begins."

Oklahoma returns fewer starters than any other Big Eight Conference club and is the only Big Eight team which does not return a starting quarterback.

"I try to look at the good things," he said with a smile, "but some years it's kind of hard finding them."

Jones toiled 17 years as the chief assistant at OU under Bud Wilkinson and helped the Sooners dominate the collegiate football scene in the 1950s, winning national titles in 1950, 1955 and 1956.

At 51, Jones is ready for his second go-round as the top man and despite the few veterans on hand, he's eager.

"I'm ready for it to srart," he says. "Our young boys need some experience and the season's got to get here before they can get it."

After his long tenure as an assistant, Jones is well qualified to compare the chores of an aide and the head coach.

"The main difference," he said, "is that there are a lot of things you run into as a head coach that you never had to worry about as an assistant. You have more problems and more things to occupy your time."

And from a strictly coaching standpoint, he says he doesn't find it too difficult following a super-successful coach like Wilkinson.

"I feel people realize no one's ever going to have those 31 and 47 game victory streaks again," he said. "In fact, it's hard to go undefeated nowadays."

USLTA Hands Belkin Six-Week Suspension

Miami, Fla. (AP) — The Miami News said Wednesday that it learned nationally ranked tennis player Mike Belkin was suspended by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association for six weeks. This would bar him from competing in the Maccabiah Games at Tel Aviv, Israel, and at Forest Hills in the national singles championships next week.

Belkin risked suspension earlier this month by entering two Canadian tournaments without clearance of Clothier's committee. The U.S.L.T.A. requires clearance before a player competes outside the United States.

Mets Dump Dodgers; Twins Down Yankees

. . . GIANTS-PIRATES POSTPONED

By Associated Press

For the second straight night the last-place New York Mets whipped the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, but again the Dodgers stayed in first place when Cincinnati made it two straight over the runner-up Milwaukee Braves with a ninth inning homer Wednesday night.

The Mets spotted the Dodgers two runs in the first inning then came from behind to win 7-5 on Gordon Richardson's relief pitching and three hits by Joe Christopher.

Tony Perez slammed a three-run pinch hit homer in the ninth to break a 4-4 tie and give the Reds a 7-4 triumph over the Braves.

Rain kept third-place San Francisco from beating Pittsburgh and further tightening the race. The Giants had gone ahead 5-3 in the top of the 10th when time was called. The rain stopped long enough for the Pirates to come to bat in their half, but after one out, it started again. After a wait of nearly 1½ hours the umpires called it off.

This wiped out the two Giant runs in the 10th and made it a nine-inning 3-3 tie in the record books. The game will be replayed as part of a twi-night doubleheader Thursday.

The Giants scored their two runs in the 10th with two out and the bases loaded when relief pitcher Don Schwall made a wild pitch and hit the next batter.

The Chicago Cubs whipped St. Louis 6-3 and Houston came up with two runs in the ninth to defeat Philadelphia 7-6 in the other NL games.

Minnesota regained a 7½ game lead over the Chicago White Sox in the American League. The Twins defeated the New York Yankees 5-4 as Rich Rollins' two-run triple sparked a three-run seventh-inning uprising. Milt Pappas pitched a four-hitter for Baltimore as the Orioles beat the White Sox 2-1.

Jim Catfish Hunter, 19-year-old right-hander, pitched Kansas City to a 5-0 shutout over Detroit and Boston hit five homers to down Washington 8-3.

Sparked by Duke Sims' two-run homer in the seventh, Cleveland defeated the Los Angeles Angels 6-3 in the first game of their twi-night doubleheader.

Cleveland led 4-0 after three innings of the second game.

Ikes Present Award To Game Commision

The winner took an early lead, opened a clear margin in the backstretch but had to hold off a stiff challenge by Lincolnite C. L. Clapper's Page Me at the wire.

Jody Ree's time of one-minte, 13 3/5-seconds for the six furlong race was only four-fifth of a second off the track record held by Thoughtlews.

HUNTING DATES SET

. . . Game Commission Vetoes Split Season

The State Game Commission Wednesday set a 40-day duck season from Wednesday, Oct 20 to Nov 28

In so doing, the commission broke away from the split season concept.

Limits will be four daily and eight in possesion.

The daily bag limit may not include more than one mallard and one pintail. Possession of the two species would be two each.

A 75-day goose season was set to open on Friday, Oct. 1 and end Tuesday, Dec. 14.

Limits will be five in the daily bag and in possession.

Bag and possession may not include more than two Canada Geese.

The Commission set a 93-day pheasant season to run from Saturday, Oct. 23 to Jan. 23.

Bag limit will be four cocks and a possession limit of 20.

In addition, the Commission set a 16-day hen and cock season to run from Jan. 8 to Jan 23.

The bag limit will be one hen in a four bird limit and five hens in a 20 bird possession limit.

There were two areas set for the hen season

Hens may be hunted during those 16 days in the area east of U.S. 281 and north of N-91. and in an area south and west of a line from the South Dakota border near Gordon and running along a line consisting of highways· N-27, N-2, N-61, U S 30, and U.S. 283 to the Kansas border near Beaver City.

The commission set a 65-day quail season to run from Oct. 30 to Jan. 2. Bag limit will be six and possession limit 18.

The grouse season was set for 44 days to run from Sept. 18 to Oct. 31, with a bag limit of two and possession of six.

Again, the cottontail can be hunted year-around. Bag limit is 10 and possession limit is 30

Special deer season for two days in the Gifford and DeSoto management areas and four days in the Valentine unit were set to begin Saturday, Dec. 18.

A muskrat and beaver trapping season was set to begin Nov 15 and end March 15 and the mink trapping season was set to begin Nov. 15 and end Jan 15

There is no limit for either trapping season

The rail and gallinule season was set from Oct. 2 through Dec. 10, with a daily bag limit of 15 and a possession limit of 30.

The snipe season was set for Oct. 2 through Nov. 20, with daily bag limit of 8 and possession limit of 16

Prior to setting the seasons, the Commission held a public hearing in the West Senate Chamber.

Testimony centered on whether the duck season should be split or not, and whether there should be a season on hen pheasants.

Game Commission Director Mel Steen said the reason for the restrictive limits on pintails and mallards was because the two species are at the lowest level in history. He said there were more ducks killed than produced in 1964.

The duck limits were set previously by federal authorities.

Steen predicted increasing duck production in 1966.

Borner Birdies No. 10

. . . AT OFC

(10th of a Series)
By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

One of the problems that faces many of this country's older golf courses is the small tees that limit the mobility of tee markers to save wear and tear on the teeing areas.

But one of he oldest courses west of the Mississippi River has one of the largest tees in the world on a hole that qualifies as No. 10 on The Lincoln Star's Nebraska's Best 18.

The No. 10 tee at the Omaha Field Club, home of former U.S. Amateur and U.S. Open champion Johnny Goodman, sits on a reservoir and measures nearly 150 feet from front to back and more than 100 feet from side to side

The Omaha Field Club along with the Omaha Country Club and the Lincoln Country Club rate as the tightest golf courses in the state because of the narrow tree-lined fairways.

The 10th hole at the Omaha Field Club, founded in 1903 and host to the National Amateur in 1941, is typical of the narrow fairways on the entire course.

The green is tucked behind trees to the right with an out of bounds fence directly behind the green and another out of bounds fence running from the tee to the green on the right

Despite the advisability of keeping the ball to the left side of the fairway, Charlie Borner came up with the first birdie on the series when he played down the right side.

Borner's drive was on the right edge of the fairway on the par-4, 386-yard hole, leaving him 120 yards short of the green with trees partially blocking his approach.

Borner used a 7-iron to keep the ball low under the trees and hit to the back of he green.

His 16-foot putt from just on the fringe rolled in for a birdie-3, putting him back to four-over-par for the series.

Taber's drive went left and into he adjoining No. 1 fairway where he was stymied by a grove of trees. He pulled a 7-iron to the right and barely caught the collar of the right side of the green

Taber chipped on and left himself with a nine-foot putt which he just missed at the edge of the cup for a bogey-5 putting him 10 over par

Assistant pro Terry Crouch used a 3-wood off the tee and kept it down the middle where he had an easy 8-iron shot left to the green. His 25-foot putt for the birdie rolled by the cup on the right side. He made the one-footer coming back for the par-4, keeping the pros at only two over par.

Russell Signs Huge 3-Year Celtic Contract

Boston (AP) — Big Bill Russell, who helped build the Boston Celtics into a dynasty with his revolutionary defensive play, signed a three-year contract with the National Basketball Association's champions Wednesday for an estimated $101,000 annually

Boston Coach and General Manager Red Auerbach told a news conference that Russell was signed "to an unprecedented three-year contract at a fantastic salary."

The 6-foot-10 Russell said he didn't think the contract was "so fantastic," but admitted that "each of the three years is in six figures "

Russell, a bearded former All-America at San Francisco who will be 32 next February, stated last week after Wilt Chamberlain had agreed to terms with the Philadelphia 76ers that he wouldn't sign if he didn't receive "at least $1 more than" the seven-foot scoring ace.

Devaney Third In Big 8 Annals

. . . WILKINSON LEADS

Kansas City (AP)—Bob Devaney of Nebraska ranks third, Missouri's Dan Devine seventh and Jack Mitchell of Kansas is No. 10 among all coaches in the 37-year history of Big Eight conference football

The rankings, for conference games only, are headed by Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson, who won 91 league games, lost nine and tied three in 17 years. Dana Bible, coach at Nebraska in the 1930s, is next with a 33-3-4 record in league play over eight seasons.

Devaney with 18-3 for three years could move past Bible into second place only if the Huskers sweep all seven league games this fall. Bible's percentage is .875, counting ties as half won, half lost. A sweep would lift Devaney to .893, a scant five percentage points behind Wilkinson.

The Devaney career record of 63-15-5 for a .789 percentage heads the nation's active major college coaches and Devine is No. 3 nationally with 76-22-6 for .759. Mitchell's record is 29-15-3 for a 649 percentage in league play.

Devine at 33-11-3 has a four-game bulge on Mitchell in their rivalry. Their records are identical against other league foes.

The list contains some surprises. For instance, the fourth-place spot held by Dewey Luster, Oklahoma's wartime coach whose league mark was 19-4-2 for .800. Another sleeper is Missouri's wartime coach, Chauncey Simpson, with 10-3-2 for .733, good for eighth place.

Tom Stidman of Oklahoma is fifth at 15-4-1 through four seasons.

Sonny Grandelius, who left Colorado under the cloud of NCAA recruiting penalties after a 1961 title year, is sixth, 15-5 for .750. Biff Jones, with a 21-10-4 league record for seven years at Oklahoma and Nebraska is ninth.

State Adopts Waterways Sign System

The State Game Commission Wednesday adopted a uniform waterway marker system for Nebraska. It follows the pattern developed by the Federal Government.

The markers are used for posting speed limits, directional signs and pointing out restricted areas.

Commissioners also approved a boating regulation change that makes the boat operator, rather than the skier, responsible for rule infractions involving water skiing

A regulation clarification providing that all children less than 12 years old must wear approved life preservers in boats was adopted, and the Commisison approved speed zones for areas of Merritt Reservoir in north-central Nebraska.

In other action, commissioners approved the purchase of 40 acres of marshland in Nucholls County. It is two miles south and two miles west of Edgar.

Attendance Records Sure For Huskers

With the Nebraska Cornhuskers set to open their 1965 fall camp next Monday, they can be assured already that their six-game home slate will be viewed by a record number of fans.

Assistant Athletic Director Jim Pittenger said Tuesday that Memorial Stadium is within "roughly 3,000 Texas Christian game tickets" of being sold out for the 1965 season.

"With the exception of the TCU game, we have more orders on hand for season and single game tickets than it would appear we will be able to fill," Pittenger said.

He added that this also applies to the Missouri game this fall at Columbia.

Pittenger said he hopes to be able to fill "the biggest majority" of season ticket orders now on hand.

Pittenger said his earlier estimate of approximately 41,000 season ticket sales appears assured at this time with 27,000 public sales, 11,000 student sales and 3,000 faculty sales.

This leaves the Huskers with approximately 10,000 tickets available for single game sales, he said.

American Golf Classic Set Today

Akron, Ohio (AP)—A field of 110 professionals and amateurs will tee off today in the fifth American Golf Classic at the Firestone Country Club.

Dave Marr, recent winner of the PGA title, and Homero Blancas, a newcomer to the pro tour, sent word Wednesday that they would be unable to compete in the 78-hole tournament which offers $100,000 prize money. The top prize is $20,000.

A tournament official said he was informed that Marr is running a fever and Blancas has come down with an attack of influenza and is in a Boston hospital

Most of the big name professionals will compete in the Classic, which ends Sunday. The only two missing from the top 20 Professional Golfers Association money winners will be Gary Player, who is going home to South Africa, and Billy Casper, who declined an invitation.

Ken Venturi is recovering from an operation on his ailing hands and will not defend the title he won last year at Firestone's 7,165-yard, par 70 layout.

He will be back, however, as an announcer to participate in the telecast of the final four holes Sunday on ABC-TV

Jack Nicklaus, who has won $126,000 in prize money this year, and Tony Lema, the Carling Open winner this week, are among the top U.S. entries.

The 70 low scorers after Friday's second round will compete in the final rounds Saturday and Sunday. In case of a tie at the end of 72 holes, there will be a sudden-death playoff.

Optimist Jones Has Troubles

. . . WITH OU SQUAD

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Gomer Jones, who works hard at being an optimist, has a difficult time trying to find a bright aspect to the upcoming football season

The University of Oklahoma football coach is set to begin his second year as th head man and he has only a handful of proven players.

"We have some fine backfield material." he says "We also have what we feel are some good sophomore prospects If they pick up enough experience in the first three games then we could have a good ball club by the time conference play begins "

Oklahoma returns fewer starters than any other Big Eight Conference club and is the only Big Eight team which does not return a starting quarterback

"I try to look at the good things," he said with a smile, "but some years it's kind of hard finding them."

Jones toiled 17 years as the chief assistant at OU under Bud Wilkinson and helped the Sooners dominate the collegiate football scene in the 1950s, winning national titles in 1950, 1955 and 1956

At 51, Jones is ready for his second go-round as the top man and despite the few veterans on hand, he's eager

"I'm ready for it to srart," he says. "Our young boys need some experience and the season's got to get here before they can get it."

After his long tenure as an assistant, Jones is well qualified to compare the chores of an aide and the head coach

"The main difference," he said, "is that there are a lot of things you run into as a head coach that you never had to worry about as an assistant You have more problems and more things to occupy your time "

And from a strictly coaching standpoint, he says he doesn't find it too difficult following a super-successful coach like Wilkinson.

"I feel people realize no one's ever going to have those 31 and 47 game victory streaks again." he said. "In fact, it's hard to go undefeated nowadays "

USLTA Hands Belkin Six-Week Suspension

Miami, Fla. (AP) — The Miami News said Wednesday that it learned nationally ranked tennis player Mike Belkin was suspended by the U S. Lawn Tennis Association for six weeks This would bar him from competing in the Maccabiah Games at Tel Aviv, Israel and at Forest Hills in the national singles championships next week

Belkin risked suspension earlier this month by entering two Canadian tournaments without clearance of Clothier's committee. The U S.L.T.A. requires clearance before a player competes outside the United States.

Favorites Pressed In Gals' Amateur Championship

Denver, Colo. (AP)—Medalist Lida Fee Matthews of Portsmouth, Ohio, and defending champion Barbara McIntire were hard pressed to win first-round matches Wednesday in the U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship.

Miss Matthews squeaked by Mrs. Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, 1-up, when Mrs. Stranahan hit trees with her drive and second shot on the 18th hole.

Miss McIntire, from Colorado Springs, Colo., broke open her tight match with Beck Glascock, Little Rock, Ark., by sinking a 14-foot birdie putt on No. 15 to go 1-up. Miss Glasscock missed her putt for a birdie on the same hole from 10 feet.

Browns Add Clay

Cleveland, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns added Ozzie Clay, formerly with the Washington Redskins, to their roster and dropped two players Wednesday.

Pete Williams Rolls 728 Series At Plaza Bowl

Pete Williams, bowling for the Badgett Music team in the Cornhusker League at Plaza Bowl Wednesday night, rolled games of 245, 236, and 247 for a 728 series.

Williams series is the second highest ever rolled at Plaza, ranking only behind Ollie Meier's 740.

Williams has been bowling for seven years and recorded an even 700 series two years ago in league competition.

Wednesday was his first night of league action this season. He shot a 598 in the early shift then came back with the 728 in the late group to get the season off to a good start. Last year he averaged 186 at Plaza.

American Swimmers Set Records In Israel

Tel Aviv, Israel (AP) — Slender Mark Spitz and Olympian Marilyn Ramenofsky of the United States and a wispy 12-year-old Israeli girl were the stars Wednesday on another record-breaking afternoon in swimming in the seventh Maccabiah Games. Americans won three of the five finals and Israel won the other two.

Spitz, a 15-year-old, 130-pound schoolboy from Santa Clara, Calif., captured his third gold medal and third meet record in taking the 400-meter individual medley by eight meters over teammate Steve Schultz of Phoenix, Ariz.

Barbara McIntire Still Pressing In Denver

Denver, Colo. (AP)—Defending champion Barbara McIntire, pressed most of the way, led other favorites through the first and second rounds of the U.S. Women's Amateur Golf Championship Wednesday.

The steady swinger from Colorado Springs, Colo., turned back scrambling Becky Glasscock, Little Rock, Ark., 3 and 1, in the opening round and followed up with a 3 and 2 triumph over Marcella Rose of Jefferson City, Mo.

Randy May Quit If AAU-NCAA Feud Not Settled

Budapest (AP)—World recordholder Randy Matson said Wednesday he may quit putting the shot if the feud between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association is not resolved.

"I may just go out for basketball or something," the 6-foot-6 giant from Texas A&M said. 'It is awfuly frustrating to work all summer and then not be allowed to compete in major meets."

Matson, who has put the shot 70 feet, 7 inches, won the event at the World University Games Wednesday with a throw of 66-7¾.

Mets Dump Dodgers; Twins Down Yankees

. . . GIANTS-PIRATES POSTPONED

By Associated Press

For the second straight night the last-place New York Mets whipped the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers but again the Dodgers stayed in first place when Cincinnati made it two straight over the runner-up Milwaukee Braves with a ninth inning homer Wednesday night.

The Mets spotted the Dodgers two runs in the first inning then came from behind to win 7-5 on Gordon Richardson's relief pitching and three hits by Joe Christopher.

Tony Perez slammed a three-run pinch hit homer in the ninth to break a 4-4 tie and give the Reds a 7-4 triumph over the Braves.

Rain kept third-place San Francisco from beating Pittsburgh and further tightening the race. The Giants had gone ahead 5-3 in the top of the 10th when time was called. The rain stopped long enough for the Pirates to come to bat in their half, but after one out, it started again. After a wait of nearly 1½ hours the umpires called it off

This wiped out the two Giant runs in the 10th and made it a nine-inning 3-3 tie in the record books. The game will be replayed as part of a twi-night doubleheader Thursday.

The Giants scored their two runs in the 10th with two out and the bases loaded when relief pitcher Don Schwall made a wild pitch and hit the next batter.

The Chicago Cubs whipped St. Louis 6-3 and Houston came up with two runs in the ninth to defeat Philadelphia 7-6 in the other NL games.

Minnesota regained a 7½ game lead over the Chicago White Sox in the American League. The Twins defeated the New York Yankees 5-4 as Rich Rollins' two-run triple sparked a three-run seventh-inning uprising. Milt Pappas pitched a four-hitter for Baltimore as the Orioles beat the White Sox 2-1.

Jim Catfish Hunter, 19-year-old right-hander, pitched Kansas City to a 5-0 shutout over Detroit and Boston hit five homers to down Washington 8-3.

Sparked by Duke Sims' two-run homer in the seventh, Cleveland defeated the Los Angeles Angels 6-3 in the first game of their twi-night doubleheader.

Cleveland led 4-0 after three innings of the second game.

Favorites Pressed In Gals' Amateur Championship

Post Conviction Law To Be Tested

The first case brought before the State Supreme Court under Nebraska's new post-conviction law was filed Wednesday by Virgil D. Riley, an inmate at the state penitentiary.

Riley contends he was not advised of his right to legal counsel or given counsel during a preliminary hearing in Lancaster County Court on Oct. 22, 1964.

Riley's motion under the post-conviction act was originally filed in the district court of Lancaster County. It asked that his sentence be vacated.

He appealed to the high court Wednesday after his request was rejected by the district court.

The post-conviction law was enacted by the 1965 Legislature with the passage of LB-836. The measure gives convicted persons a legal remedy in state courts if they believe their constitutional guarantees were violated by law officers or in the courts.

Peterson Taking 'Careful Look' At Governor's Race

Former three-term Nebraska Republican Gov. Val Peterson Wednesday said he is "taking a careful look at the gubernatorial situation."

Peterson made a swing through Dawson, Lincoln, and Cheyenne Counties last week, contacting friends and Republican Party officials.

Reportedly, he sought to make political readings.

Scholarships Are Set For Ranch, Farm Students

About 100 farm and ranch youths will be selected Thursday to receive scholarships under a new program established by the 1965 Legislature.

More than 350 applicants from 75 Nebraska counties have applied for the grants, according to the State Agriculture Department.

Recipients of the scholarships can use them for either academic or vocational-technical training.

The funds for the grants come from interest on $2.4 million Nebraska has tied up in Rural Rehabilitation Corps. funds.

The scholarship plan was established by passage of LB163.

Recommend Veto On Vanice Request

The City-County Planning Commission Wednesday unanimously recommended denial of a zoning change which would allow Kaer Vanice to build and operate a car sales agency and service department on the northeast corner of 70th and O.

Turned down by a 5-0 vote was the request for a change of zone on the six acre tract from G-1 planned commercial to H-1 highway business.

Representing Vanice, attorneys Lloyd Marti and Taylor Greer told the commission that the property their client owns is "unique" and suitable only for one large business operation rather than several smaller ones.

They argued that one business would produce less traffic problems and the half-million dollar structure planned by Vanice would add to the aesthetic value of the surrounding area.

Opposition

In opposition to the application, St. Elizabeth Hospital representative L. A. Enersen supported planning department contentions that a change of zone to H-1 highway business at 70th and O and elsewhere along East O would tend to produce the type of environment found on Cornhusker Highway and West O.

Veterans Hospital administrator Dr. Melvin Boykin said a zoning change at that location would "be getting a foot in the door, putting businesses out there which would detract from the hospitals.".

Final action of the change of zone will be taken by the City Council.

The commission recommended approval of an amendment to the zoning ordinance which expand the types of uses of transitional lots.

As the ordinance now stands, only clinic type uses are allowed on transitional lots.

The amendment would provide that transitional lots could be used for office buildings for lawyers, brokers, accountants, manufacturer's representative, interior decorators, collection agency, architects, engineers, planners and a studio for one teacher of music or art.

—Special permit requested by Susan Hall to operate a pre-school at 131 Skyway Rd., approved.

—Special permit requested by Jerome J. Milder to erect a sign in connection with Milder Manor, 1750 So. 20th, approved.

—Vacation of a portion of the north-south alley between N and O, 10th and 11th, approved.

—Preliminary plat of Jefferson, in the vicinity of 29th, Garfield and Sumner, postponed.

—Final plats for Portsche Heights, south of Nebr. 2 and Pine Lake, and North Side Village, north of Adams, between 14th and Milton, approved.

City-County Building Plans Ready In Spring

Plans for the proposed City-County Building should be completed by next spring, according to City Councilman Ervin Peterson.

Peterson, a member of the city-county building committee, said that the committee Tuesday set June, 1966 as the target date for having building plans ready for bids and early 1968 for completion of the building.

The councilman said he assumed construction would start sometime next summer after bids are approved.

"We are moving ahead real well", Peterson said. "Our group is encouraging the architects to move as fast as possible."

He said the committee now favors a building which will include a basement, three full floors of offices and jail facilities on the fourth floor.

"We plan to put the city and county offices most used by the public on the first two floors and we are considering having two escalators between the first and second floors", said Peterson.

He added that the courts and related offices will be on the third floor and sheriff and police offices will be located in the basement.

Members of the special committee are Peterson, Councilman Lloyd Hinkley and County Commissioners Ralph Harlan and Kenneth Bourne.

WANTED

Holice Paul Black, 21, of Chicago, has been added to the FBI's list of 10 most wanted fugitives. He is charged with flight to avoid prosecution on charges of murder and armed robbery. The FBI said he is charged with shooting to death a Chicago policeman during a robbery at a supermarket Aug. 4.

$75 MILLION SUGGESTED FOR AID CUT

Washington (AP) — A cut of $75 million—smallest in years—in funds to finance the foreign aid program was recommended Wednesday by a House appropriations subcommittee.

The group's action is subject to review by the full committee late next week.

The subcommittee headed by Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., approved appropriations of about $3.285 billion to finance the program for which Congress this week authorized a ceiling of $3.36 billion.

President Johnson originally requested about $3.45 billion, but the separate authorization bill cut that about $97.6 million.

Passman said of the committee's action, taken behind closed doors, "This is by no means a bare bones bill." In past years, Passman has led the fight for deep cuts in the aid program.

Last year Congress cut the President's request by more than $200 million.

Salt-Wahoo Duties To Be Defined

Salt-Wahoo Watershed District directors Wednesday authorized board President Otto Liebers to sign an agreement spelling out flood control and drainage duties in Lincoln and Lancaster County.

The action followed signing authorizations Monday by the City Council and Tuesday by the county Board of Commissioners.

No immediate changes will be made under the agreement which says it is "intended only to establish the framework of responsibility and cooperation among the parties."

Basically it will spell out what the three signers have already been doing.

'Good Agreement

Salt-Wahoo attorney Robert Crosby said it is "a good agreement and offers the best distribution of responsibilities."

Major provisions of the agreement include:

—Salt-Wahoo will be responsible for major drainage channels such as Salt Creek, Antelope Creek, Beal's Slough, Dead Man's Run, Haines Branch, Oak Creek and Stevens Creek.

—The city will be responsible for the portion of Antelope Creek flowing in an enclosed conduit from N to Vine.

—Salt-Wahoo will be responsible for engineering, land acquisition and maintenance along these channels and the city will be responsible for the bridges across channels.

Flood Plain Areas

—Salt-Wahoo will prepare an analysis of needed improvements on major channels.

The Salt-Wahoo directors also went on record as resolving that any Corps of Engineers flood control study concentrate on areas within the watershed district itself.

The district has applied for $5,000 in federal funds to begin the study, needed largely because of Lincoln area growth and "changing criteria used to justify projects," district general manager Hal Schroeder said.

Some directors said they were concerned that other areas might ask the corps to use a portion of the funds for flood control review outside the district.

Dobson Bros. Low On Most City Projects

Dobson Bros. Construction Co. was the apparent low bidder on all but one city utility and paving projects for which bids were received Wednesday.

For a storm sewer, to be constructed from 1st and B to Salt Creek, Dobson bid $57,410, followed by Klaasmeyer Bros. of Dunbar, $57,800; H. R. Bookstrom Construction Co., $66,526 and N.L. Cole, $67,500.

Klaasmeyer Bros. was the apparent low bidder for storm sewer work from 1st and N to Salt Creek, bidding $59,800. Dobson Bros. bid $61,069; H.R. Bookstrom, $75,230 and N.L. Cole, $76,000.

Other bids:

—Paving district, Calvert St., 15th to 17th: Dobson Bros., $13,240.90; Pioneer Paving Co., $13,381.90.

—Water main, Lowell Ave., 49th to 51st; 51st, Lowell Ave. to Meredeth: Dobson Bros., $5,708; N.L. Cole, $5,795; H.R. Bookstrom, $5,893.

—Water main, 45th St., Starr to Holdrege: Dobson Bros., $1,817; N.L. Cole, $1,895; H.R. Bookstrom, $1,932.

Attendance at the city's 28 playgrounds is up over 1964, according to Bob Dula, superintendent of recreation.

In releasing attendance figures for various recreation department activities, Dula noted:

—182,000 have attended morning and evening playground sessions so far this summer.

—4,883 enrolled in the 8-weeks tennis program. Classes were held at 8 tennis courts.

Dula said that more than 1,780 persons have paid admission to use the Woods Park tennis courts. He said the city plans to keep the Woods courts open on a limited basis on weekends following the closing of Woods Pool.

18-Year-Old Girl Gets Draft Notice

Rochester, N.Y. (AP)—Charmel Bobby, 18, a June graduate of suburban Penfield High School, received an Army draft notice Tuesday.

But she told the draft board she'd rather be an airline hostess.

Charmel had been inadvertently listed among the school's male graduates. She was even offered a chance to serve in the military police.

Post Conviction Law To Be Tested

The first case brought before the State Supreme Court under Nebraska's new post-conviction law was filed Wednesday by Virgil D. Riley, an inmate at the state penitentiary.

Riley contends he was not advised of his right to legal counsel or given counsel during a preliminary hearing in Lancaster County Court on Oct. 22, 1964.

Riley's motion under the post-conviction act was originally filed in the district court of Lancaster County. It asked that his sentence be vacated.

He appealed to the high court Wednesday after his request was rejected by the district court.

The post-conviction law was enacted by the 1965 Legislature with the passage of LB-836. The measure gives convicted persons a legal remedy in state courts if they believe their constitutional guarantees were violated by law officers or in the courts.

Peterson Taking 'Careful Look' At Governor's Race

Former three-term Nebraska Republican Gov. Val Peterson Wednesday said he is "taking a careful look at the gubernatorial situation."

Peterson made a swing through Dawson, Lincoln, and Cheyenne Counties last week, contacting friends and Republican Party officials.

Reportedly, he sought to make political readings.

Political sources felt the excursion encouraged Peterson's inclination to enter the 1966 primary election for governor.

Scholarships Are Set For Ranch, Farm Students

About 100 farm and ranch youths will be selected Thursday to receive scholarships under a new program established by the 1965 Legislature.

More than 350 applicants from 75 Nebraska counties have applied for the grants, according to the State Agriculture Department.

Recipients of the scholarships can use them for either academic or vocational-technical training.

The funds for the grants come from interest on $2.4 million Nebraska has tied up in Rural Rehabilitation Corps funds.

The scholarship plan was established by passage of LB163.

Washington (AP)—Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois announced Wednesday the opening of a Washington office. It is part of the state's recently created Department of Business and Economic Development.

The new office, Kerner told a luncheon group which included Sens. Paul Douglas, D, and Everett Dirksen, R, and most of the Illinois House members, would add depth and breadth to the economic development programs of the state agency.

Recommend Veto On Vanice Request

The City-County Planning ommission Wednesday nanimously recommended enial of a zoning change hich would allow Kaer Vance to build and operate a car ales agency and service deartment on the northeast orner of 70th and O.

Turned down by a 5-0 vote as the request for a change f zone on the six acre tract rom G-1 planned commerial to H-1 highway business

Representing Vanice, attoreys Lloyd Marti and Taylor reer told the commission hat the property their client wns is "unique" and suitble only for one large business operation rather than everal smaller ones.

They argued that one busiess would produce less trafic problems and the half-milion dollar structure planned y Vanice would add to the esthetic value of the surounding area.

Opposition

In opposition to the appliation, St. Elizabeth Hospital epresentative L A Enersen upported planning departnent contentions that a hange of zone to H-1 highvay business at 70th and O nd elsewhere along East would tend to produce the ype of environment found on ornhusker Highway and West O

Veterans Hospital administrator Dr. Melvin Boykin said a zoning change at that location would "be getting a foot in the door, putting businesses out there which would detract from the hospitals."

Final action of the change of zone will be taken by the City Council.

The commission recommended approval of an amendment to the zoning ordinance which expand the types of uses of transitional lots

As the ordinance now stands, only clinic type uses are allowed on transitional lots.

The amendment would provide that transitional lots could be used for office buildings for lawyers, brokers, accountants, manufacturer's representative, interior decorators collection agency, architects, engineers, planners and a studio for one teacher of music or art

City-County Building Plans Ready In Spring

Plans for the proposed City-ounty Building should be ompleted by next spring, acording to City Councilman rvin Peterson

Peterson, a member of the ity-county building committee, said that the committee uesday set June, 1966 as the arget date for having building lans ready for bids and early 968 for completion of the uilding.

The councilman said he asumed construction would tart sometime next summer fter bids are approved

"We are moving ahead real well", Peterson said. "Our group is encouraging the arhitects to move as fast as ossible."

He said the committee now avors a building which will nclude a basement, three full loors of offices and jail facilities on the fourth floor

"We plan to put the city and county offices most used by the public on the first two floors and we are considering having two escalators between the first and second floors", said Peterson.

He added that the courts and related offices will be on the third floor and sheriff and police offices will be located in the basement

$75 MILLION SUGGESTED FOR AID CUT

Washington (AP) — A cut of $75 million—smallest in years —in funds to finance the foreign aid program was recommended Wednesday by a House appropriations subcommittee

The group's action is subject to review by the full committee late next week.

The subcommittee headed by Rep Otto E. Passman, D-La, approved appropriations of about $3 285 billion to finance the program for which Congress this week authorized a ceiling of $3 36 billion

President Johnson originally requested about $3.45 billion, but the separate authorization bill cut that about $97 6 million

Passman said of the committee's action, taken behind closed doors, "This is by no means a bare bones bill." In past years, Passman has led the fight for deep cuts in the aid program.

Last year Congress cut the President's request by more than $200 million

Salt-Wahoo Duties To Be Defined

Salt-Wahoo Watershed District directors Wednesday authorized board President Otto Liebers to sign an agreement spelling out flood control and drainage duties in Lincoln and Lancaster County.

The action followed signing authorizations Monday by the City Council and Tuesday by the county Board of Commissioners.

No immediate changes will be made under the agreement which says it is "intended only to establish the framework of responsibility and cooperation among the parties."

Basically it will spell out what the three signers have already been doing.

'Good Agreement

Salt-Wahoo attorney Robert Crosby said it is "a good agreement and offers the best distribution of responsibilities."

Major provisions of the agreement include·

—Salt-Wahoo will be responsible for major drainage channels such as Salt Creek, Antelope Creek, Beal's Slough, Dead Man's Run, Haines Branch, Oak Creek and Stevens Creek.

—The city will be responsible for the portion of Antelope Creek flowing in an enclosed conduit from N to Vine.

—Salt-Wahoo will be responsible for engineering land acquisition and maintenance along these channels and the city will be responsible for the bridges across channels

Flood Plain Areas

—The city agrees to take steps to prevent undesirable development in flood plain areas.

—Salt-Wahoo will prepare an analysis of needed improvements on major channels

The Salt-Wahoo directors also went on record as resolving that any Corps of Engineers flood control study concentrate on areas within the watershed district itself.

The district has applied for $5 000 in federal funds to begin the study, needed largely because of Lincoln area growth and "changing criteria used to justify projects." district general manager Hal Schroeder said

Some directors said they were concerned that other areas might ask the corps to use a portion of the funds for flood control review outside the district

Attendance at the city's 28 playgrounds is up over 1964, according to Bob Dula, superintendent of recreation.

In releasing attendance figures for various recreation department activities, Dula noted

—182,000 have attended morning and evening playground sessions so far this summer.

—4,883 enrolled in the 8-weeks tennis program. Classes were held at 8 tennis courts.

Dula said that more than 1,780 persons have paid admission to use the Woods Park tennis courts. He said the city plans to keep the Woods courts open on a limited basis on weekends following the closing of Woods Pool.

18-Year-Old Girl Gets Draft Notice

Rochester, N.Y. (AP)—Charmel Bobby, 18, a June graduate of suburban Penfield High School, received an Army draft notice Tuesday.

But she told the draft board she'd rather be an airline hostess.

Charmel had been inadvertently listed among the school's male graduates. She was even offered a chance to serve in the military police.

New Code Provisions Criticized

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska's 1965 Legislature came under fire Wednesday night at a meeting considering some of the provisions of the new Uniform Commercial Code when Lincoln attorney Herman Ginsburg questioned the passage of LB429, dealing with chattel mortgages eliminated two years ago by the code.

Both the Uniform Code and LB429 are slated to become effective the same day, Sept. 1.

Ginsburg explained that LB429, introduced by Lincoln Sen. Marvin Stromer, provides procedure for foreclosure of chattel mortgages. However, the Uniform Code, adopted by the 1963 Legislature, supersedes chattel mortgages, installment and conditional sales contracts and others with security agreements and financial statements.

"The result of this, I don't know," Ginsburg declared.

The Lincoln Retail Credit Assn. sponsored the Wednesday meeting for Lincoln businessmen and women to present some of the highlights of the "voluminous" 630-page code, Volume 6 of the Nebraska Statutes.

The idea, Ginsburg told some 80 men and women attending, is to remove the lawyer's technicalities and substitute the "law of the market place, or what the merchant community actually does."

Noting the large number of attorneys in the audience, Ginsburg cited some of the drastic changes in Nebraska law, especially with regard to sales, bulk sales and security transactions.

The Lincoln attorney supported his declaration that "it's a real technical thing," with examples of exceptions to outlined procedures and exceptions to the exceptions upon certain conditions.

He pointed out that filing of financial statements, in county agencies, certainly will be criticized. Most states have a central filing system, according to Ginsburg, "but the Nebraska Legislature chose to do it differently."

"While we may have a little transitional difficulty, once we follow the code through it works out pretty well," he concluded.

Return To Horses

Warsaw (AP) — Automobile repair work here is so bad "a solution might be to liquidate motorization of the country and return to horses," said Warsaw's largest paper, the Evening Express, in an article blasting the state service station system. It said motorists must provide spare parts and beg and smile before being allowed to leave a car for repairs — "but this is only the beginning . . . months elapse before you get the car back. Better not ask whether it has been repaired.

Aerospace Issues Up In Market

New York (AP)—Aerospace issues joined airlines in a brisk rally while the over-all stock market moved up on balance Wednesday with many bread-and-butter stocks doing very little.

Volume zoomed to 6.24 million shares from 4.75 million Tuesday, however, and this was the largest in nearly two months, specifically since June 30 when 6.93 million shares were traded.

Speculative interest was bubbling again, brokers reported, and this was shown in eager buying not only of the airlines—which were enjoying a continued rally—but in a number of the rails, electronics and photographic issues.

The rise in volume was refreshing to Wall Streeters who dragged through the July doldrums when turnover frequently ranged between three and four million shares or so, but Wednesday's volume was not very unusual for the year as a whole.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 3.73 to 890.85.

This put the closely-watched indicator once more at a level which has blocked previous rallies.

President Johnson's order for a $1.5 billion orbital space laboratory stimulated the stock of several companies directly involved in the project. This put an element of extra demand behind the stepped-up defense spending occasioned by the Viet Nam military build up.

Electronics also were bought briskly.

Continued doubt about the nature of whatever steel labor settlement may be forthcoming put a damper on steel stocks, which were unchanged to narrowly mixed. The major auto shares also were spotty, even though sales statistics remained glowing.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.1 to 331.6 with industrials up 2.3, rails up .4 and utilities off .1.

Of 1,377 issues traded, 575 rose and 539 fell. New highs for the year totaled 66 and new lows 16.

Prices ewre irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. Treasury bonds were higher.

Trade Is Slow In Grain Mart

Chicago (AP)—Without commercial business speculators usually stay out or get out of the grain futures market. Wednesday some got out; others stayed out.

While many traders spent a good deal of time merely sitting on the rim of the pits or wandering around the exchange floor, a few others conducted one of the lightest volumes of trade in many months at prices which held almost stationary in nearly all commodities.

The only exception was a flurry of selling in the wheat pit shortly before the close of the exchange. It drove prices down about a cent a bushel on four of the five contracts. Elsewhere prices finished within small fractions of previous closes.

Wheat was ⅜-1⅛ cents a bushel lower at the close, September $1.51⅜-½; corn ½ higher to ⅛ lower, September $1.21½-⅜; oats ¼-⅜ higher, September 65⅞ cents; rye ¼-½ higher; September $1.18⅜; soybeans ⅜ higher to ⅛ lower, September $2.49⅛-¼.

New Code Provisions Criticized

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska's 1965 Legislature came under fire Wednesday night at a meeting considering some of the provisions of the new Uniform Commercial Code when Lincoln attorney Herman Ginsburg questioned the passage of LB429 dealing with chattel mortgages eliminated two years ago by the code.

Both the Uniform Code and LB429 are slated to become effective the same day Sept 1

Ginsburg explained that LB429, introduced by Lincoln Sen. Marvin Stromer, provides procedure for foreclosure of chattel mortgages. However, the Uniform Code, adopted by the 1963 Legislature, supersedes chattel mortgages, installment and conditional sales contracts and others with security agreements and financial statements.

"The result of this, I don't know," Ginsburg declared.

The Lincoln Retail Credit Assn. sponsored the Wednesday meeting for Lincoln businessmen and women to present some of the highlights of the "voluminous" 630-page code. Volume 6 of the Nebraska Statutes.

The idea. Ginsburg told some 80 men and women attending, is to remove the lawyer's technicalities and substitute the "law of the market place, or what the merchant community actually does."

Noting the large number of attorneys in the audience, Ginsburg cited some of the drastic changes in Nebraska law, especially with regard to sales, bulk sales and security transactions.

The Lincoln attorney supported his declaration that "it's a real technical thing," with examples of exceptions to outlined procedures and exceptions to the exceptions upon certain conditions.

He pointed out that filing of financial statements, in county agencies, certainly will be criticized Most states have a central filing system, according to Ginsburg, "but the Nebraska Legislature chose to do it differently."

"While we may have a little transitional difficulty, once we follow the code through it works out pretty well," he concluded.

Return To Horses

Warsaw (AP) — Automobile repair work here is so bad "a solution might be to liquidate motorization of the country and return to horses," said Warsaw's largest paper the Evening Express in an article blasting the state service station system. It said motorists must provide spare parts and beg and smile before being allowed to leave a car for repairs — "but this is only the beginning months elapse before you get the car back. Better not ask whether it has been repaired.

Steelworkers Reject 40.6-Cent Pay Offer

Pittsburgh (AP) — The United Steelworkers Union, vowing it was ready to strike the nation's steel mills Sept. 1, rejected Wednesday an industry offer to raise wages and benefits by 40.6 cents an hour ovr the next three years.

USW President I. W. Abel estimated the industry offer at less than 40 cents and said that 16 cents separates the two sides.

Rejection of the offer came only hours after Pesident Johnson in a televised news conference tied the critical steel situation to the war in Viet Nam. He urged "full and complete responsibility in current wage negotiations."

Abel and R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, said they had scheduled no meetings, but would remain available.

William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service who is trying for the second time in four months to avert a nationwide strike, called both sides together for his first joint meeting with them Wednesday afternoon.

The differences that now exist between the parties should not be minimized but enough time remains for settlement prior to the Sept. 1 deadline," he said.

If no settlement is reached, the industry probably will start the costly shutdown process this weekend. The 450,000 workers, who are responsible for 80% of the nation's steel output, will be free to strike at midnight next Tuesday.

As Board Meets

Cooper announced the latest industry offer at a news conference held simultaneously with a meeting of the union's 33-member executive board.

Abel said negotiators rejected the offer Tuesday, but Cooper said he was still awaiting the decision of the union directors.

The industry estimated its offer would raise employment costs by three per cent. Included were provisions to increase wages 10 to 21 cents an hour in the first year and six cents in the third year. It also included improvements in insurance and pensions. Steelworkers now average $4.40 an hour, including benefits.

2.3% Offer

Abel said the union figured the industry offer at 2.3% which he said compred to a 2.6% wage and benefit increase the steelworkers won in an interim contract that Simkin helped work out last April.

Abel said the industry package amounted to 37.9 cents. He said the union wanted 53 cents.

"Instead of negotiating responsibility and fairly, the industry juggled figures and effective dates, inflates benefit costs and demands concessions from the union which are wholly ridiculous," he said.

Jury Investigates Actor's Income Tax Payments

Los Angeles (UPI)—An investigation into actor George Raft's income tax payments was started Wednesday by the federal grand jury.

The hearing, concerned with Raft's tax returns from 1958 through 1962, was expected to last the rest of the week. Testimony was expected to be taken from about 40 witnesses.

Jerome Weber, attorney for the 67-year-old Raft, said his client was not expected to attend the investigation but has promised full cooperation with the government.

Midwest Site For Mammoth Atom Smasher Group's Aim

The Midwest's No. 1 goal: The mammoth, mile-diameter atom smasher, scheduled for construction somewhere in the nation next year.

The governors of 12 midwestern states have agreed to make a united effort to get the smasher, and they have the support of senators, congressmen and educators in doing so.

Each midwtstern state will make its own pitch for a site. But as various sites are eliminated by the National Academy of Sciences and the Atomic Energy Commission, the states removed from consideration will swing their support to the remaining states.

"The campaign to get the atom smasher project will be the first demonstration of a united front in the Midwest," said Gene Graves, director of the Illinois Board of Business and Economic Development.

Hruska On Committee

The governors renewed their agreement on an informal basis at the Governors' Conference in Minneapolis last month. Their efforts have the support of such groups as the Midwest Resources Association (MRA) and the Midwest Universities Research Association (MURA).

The MRA executive committee is composed of Gov. George Romney of Michigan, chairman; Gov. Karl Rolvaag of Minnesota, vice chairman; Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb.; Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.; Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill.; and Rep. Joseph E. Karth, D-Minn.

The atom smasher would be the world's largest. It would cost $300 million, have an annual budget of $60 million and employ 2,000.

For two decades Midwest colleges and universitres have produced a high percentage of the nation's scientific brainpower but the area has seen government grants for atomic research, nuclear reactors, and other futuristic endeavors gone elsewhere.

The East and West coasts have elaborate space research centers and the South boasts of manned space flight facilities.

The only thing the Midwest could boast about was that the installations elsewhere were staffed—to an embarrassingly large degree—with personnel trained in the Midwest.

TWO INJURED; 3 EVICTED

This St. Paul, Minn., drug store building wears a bombed-out appearance after a freak accident early Wednesday. The car, carrying Mrs. Lorraine Tyler, 32, and Mrs. Elizabeth Jabs, 35, both of St. Paul, skidded on rain-slick pavement and crashed into the store after clipping off a street light. The two car occupants were severly injured. Three women living in second floor apartments were forced to leave.

American Viet Nam Deaths Rise To 620

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. military headquarters disclosed Wednesday 59 Americans were killed in action in Viet Nam last week. The U.S. toll, which included losses in the conquest of the Van Tuong Peninsula, was the highest in any seven-day period of the war.

The roll of American combat deaths since 1961 rose to 620.

Vietnamese government forces were reported to have lost less than usual, 120 dead, in that week of increasing American involvement.

A total of 1,010 Viet Cong were reported killed, including 599 confirmed dead at Van Tuong. This was down slightly from a count of 1330 the week before, the record for enemy casualties.

The previous high in American combat deaths was in the second week of February, when the Viet Cong killed 35. The recent average has been about 15 a week.

The statistics came out as a U.S. spokesman reported the loss of a third American plane to what appeared to be a surface to air (SAM) missile over North Viet Nam, this time about 90 miles south of Hanoi.

In continuing air strikes north of the border, 24 U.S. Air Force Thunderchiefs executed a half dozen missions during the night. A spokesman said they expended 51 tons of bombs and rockets. Among targets was the Ban Lot Barracks area, about 110 miles west of Hanoi.

Four planes from the carrier Oriskany were reported to have destroyed a bridge 130 miles south of Hanoi and cratered a road 65 miles farther south in the effort to stall North Vietnamese traffic.

Ground operations appeared light.

Watch Towers

Briefing officers said the Viet Cong brought two government watchtowers about 80 miles southwest of Saigon under mortar and small arms fire before dawn.

They said government casualties were heavy at one tower, but none was reported at the other, a mile away. One Viet Cong was reported killed.

Radio Hanoi broadcast a Viet Cong declaration that 1,130 South Vietnamese government troops defected to the Viet Cong last month. It said "This brings to 14,582" the total thus switching sides in the first seven months of the year. Comparative official statistics are lacking. Saigon authorities generally ignore Hanoi's propaganda utterances.

Ambassador Lodge

Henry Cabot Lodge presented his credentials to chief of state Nguyen Van Thieu as the new U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam and said, "I hope you can make use of me."

"I want to make myself as useful as I can," Lodge told Thieu.

The announcement on casualties last week did not identify the American units involved. Most of the U.S. losses, however, obviously were in the U.S. 7th Marine Regiment which, with air and naval support, battled an entrenched Viet Cong force from the Van Tuong Peninsula.

Negro's Tongue Cut Out; Disliked Demonstrations

Greensboro, Ala. (UPI) — Authorities announced Wednesday that an elderly Negro who openly opposed racial demonstrations was found severely beaten with his tongue cut out.

Two Negroes were being held on charges of suspicion of assault. They were identified as David Lee McAlpine, 19, who was arrested during the July 29 demonstrations here, and Roosevelt Long, 21.

Chief Deputy Sheriff David Holloway said 76-year-old Perry Smaw was found by his daughter Sunday morning in his small home. He had been beaten Saturday with an iron skillet. The skillet was broken during the attack.

Smaw, suffering a fractured skull in addition to his other injuries, lapsed into a coma Tuesday at Hale County Hospital, Holloway said, and was not expected to live.

Aerospace Issues Up In Market

New York (AP)—Aerospace issues joined airlines in a brisk rally while the over-all stock market moved up on balance Wednesday with many bread-and-butter stocks doing very little

Volume zoomed to 6 24 million shares from 4 75 million Tuesday, however, and this was the largest in nearly two months, specifically since June 30 when 6 93 million shares were traded

Speculative interest was bubbling again, brokers reported, and this was shown in eager buying not only of the airlines—which were enjoying a continued rally—but in a number of the rails, electronics and photographic issues

The rise in volume was refreshing to Wall Streeters who dragged through the July doldrums when turnover frequently ranged between three and four million shares or so, but Wednesday's volume was not very unusual for the year as a whole

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 3 73 to 890 85

This put the closely-watched indicator once more at a level which has blocked previous rallies

President Johnson's order for a $1 5 billion orbital space laboratory stimulated the stock of several companies directly involved in the project This put an element of extra demand behind the stepped up defense spending occasioned by the Viet Nam military build up

Electronics also were bought briskly

Continued doubt about the nature of whatever steel labor settlement may be forthcoming put a damper on steel stocks, which were unchanged to narrowly mixed The major auto shares also were spotty, even though sales statistics remained glowing

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1 1 to 331 6 with industrials up 2 3, rails up 4 and utilities off 1

Of 1,377 issues traded, 575 rose and 539 fell New highs for the year totaled 66 and new lows 16

Prices ewre irregularly higher on the American Stock Exchange

Corporate and U S Treasury bonds were higher

WEDNESDAY'S QUOTATIONS

Trade Is Slow In Grain Mart

Chicago (AP)—Without commercial business speculators usually stay out or get out of the grain futures market Wednesday some got out others stayed out

While many traders spent a good deal of time merely sitting on the rim of the pits or wandering around the exchange floor a few others conducted one of the lightest volumes of trade in many months at prices which held almost stationary in nearly all commodities

The only exception was a flurry selling in the wheat pit shortly before the close of the exchange It drove prices down about a cent a bushel on four of the five contracts Elsewhere prices finished within small fractions of previous closes

Wheat was ⅝-1⅛ cents a bushel lower at the close, September $1 51⅜; corn ¼ higher to ⅜ lower September $1 [illegible]; oats ¼-⅜ higher September [illegible] cents rye ¼-½ higher, September $1 18⅛; soybeans [illegible] higher to [illegible] lower September $2 49½-¾

Steelworkers Reject 40.6-Cent Pay Offer

Pittsburgh (AP) — The United Steelworkers Union, vowing it was ready to strike the nation's steel mills Sept 1 rejected Wednesday an industry offer to raise wages and benefits by 40 6 cents an hour ovr the next three years

USW President I. W. Abel estimated the industry offer at less than 40 cents and said that 16 cents separates the two sides.

Rejection of the offer came only hours after Pesident Johnson in a televised news conference tied the critical steel situation to the war in Viet Nam. He urged "full and complete responsibility in current wage negotiations"

Abel and R Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, said they had scheduled no meetings, but would remain available.

William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service who is trying for the second time in four months to avert a nation-wide strike, called both sides together for his first joint meeting with them Wednesday afternoon.

The differences that now exist between the parties should not be minimized but enough time remains for settlement prior to the Sept. 1 deadline," he said.

If no settlement is reached, the industry probably will start the costly shutdown process this weekend. The 450,000 workers, who are responsible for 80% of the nation's steel output, will be free to strike at midnight next Tuesday.

As Board Meets

Cooper announced the latest industry offer at a news conference held simultaneously with a meeting of the union's 33-member executive board.

Abel said negotiators rejected the offer Tuesday, but Cooper said he was still awaiting the decision of the union directors.

The industry estimated its offer would raise employment costs by three per cent. Included were provisions to increase wages 10 to 21 cents an hour in the first year and six cents in the third year. It also included improvements in insurance and pensions. Steelworkers now average $4 40 an hour, including benefits.

2.3% Offer

Abel said the union figured the industry offer at 2.3% which he said compred to a 2.6% wage and benefit increase the steelworkers won in an interim contract that Simkin helped work out last April.

Abel said the industry package amounted to 37.9 cents. He said the union wanted 53 cents.

"Instead of negotiating responsibility and fairly, the industry juggled figures and effective dates, inflates benefit costs and demands concessions from the union which are wholly ridiculous," he said.

TWO INJURED; 3 EVICTED

This St. Paul, Minn., drug store building wears a bombed-out appearance after a freak accident early Wednesday. The car, carrying Mrs. Lorraine Tyler, 32, and Mrs. Elizabeth Jabs, 35, both of St. Paul, skidded on rain-slick pavement and crashed into the store after clipping off a street light. The two car occupants were severly injured. Three women living in second floor apartments were forced to leave.

American Viet Nam Deaths Rise To 620

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. military headquarters disclosed Wednesday 59 Americans were killed in action in Viet Nam last week. The U.S. toll, which included losses in the conquest of the Van Tuong Peninsula, was the highest in any seven-day period of the war.

The roll of American combat deaths since 1961 rose to 620.

Vietnamese government forces were reported to have lost less than usual, 120 dead, in that week of increasing American involvement.

A total of 1,010 Viet Cong were reported killed, including 599 confirmed dead at Van Tuong. This was down slightly from a count of 1330 the week before, the record for enemy casualties.

The previous high in American combat deaths was in the second week of February, when the Viet Cong killed 35. The recent average has been about 15 a week.

The statistics came out as a U.S. spokesman reported the loss of a third American plane to what appeared to be a surface to air (SAM) missile over North Viet Nam, this time about 90 miles south of Hanoi.

In continuing air strikes north of the border, 24 U.S. Air Force Thunderchiefs executed a half dozen missions during the night. A spokesman said they expended 51 tons of bombs and rockets. Among targets was the Ban Lot Barracks area, about 110 miles west of Hanoi.

Four planes from the carrier Oriskany were reported to have destroyed a bridge 130 miles south of Hanoi and cratered a road 65 miles farther south in the effort to stall North Vietnamese traffic.

Ground operations appeared light.

Watch Towers

Briefing officers said the Viet Cong brought two government watchtowers about 80 miles southwest of Saigon under mortar and small arms fire before dawn.

They said government casualties were heavy at one tower, but none was reported at the other, a mile away. One Viet Cong was reported killed.

Radio Hanoi broadcast a Viet Cong declaration that 1,130 South Vietnamese government troops defected to the Viet Cong last month. It said "This brings to 14,582" the total thus switching sides in the first seven months of the year. Comparative official statistics are lacking. Saigon authorities generally ignore Hanoi's propaganda utterances.

Ambassador Lodge

Henry Cabot Lodge presented his credentials to chief of state Nguyen Van Thieu as the new U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam and said, "I hope you can make use of me."

"I want to make myself as useful as I can," Lodge told Thieu.

The announcement on casualties last week did not identify the American units involved. Most of the U.S. losses, however, obviously were in the U.S. 7th Marine Regiment which, with air and naval support, battled an entrenched Viet Cong force from the Van Tuong Peninsula.

The meeting—known as the Great Plains Conference — will be chairmaned by Willard C. Ridley of Sioux Falls, S.D. The main business sessions will be held Saturday with the banquet Saturday night.

Gov. Frank B. Morrison will speak at the banquet.

Jury Investigates Actor's Income Tax Payments

Los Angeles (UPI)—An investigation into actor George Raft's income tax payments was started Wednesday by the federal grand jury.

The hearing, concerned with Raft's tax returns from 1958 through 1962, was expected to last the rest of the week. Testimony was expected to be taken from about 40 witnesses.

Jerome Weber, attorney for the 67-year-old Raft, said his client was not expected to attend the investigation but has promised full cooperation with the government.

Louisville, Ky. — Leonard L. Wilson, 39, onetime director of admissions at Hastings College, Hastings, Neb., has been appointed director of development at the University of Kentucky.

Wilson

A native of South Dakota, he was graduated summa cum laude from Hastings College in 1950. He is a Naval veteran of World War II and of the Korean conflict.

Midwest Site For Mammoth Atom Smasher Group's Aim

Chicago (UPI)—The Midwest is determined to break the monopoly the rest of the nation has had on big atomic and space contracts.

The Midwest's No. 1 goal: The mammoth, mile-diameter atom smasher, scheduled for construction somewhere in the nation next year.

The governors of 12 midwestern states have agreed to make a united effort to get the smasher, and they have the support of senators, congressmen and educators in doing so.

Each midwtstern state will make its own pitch for a site. But as various sites are eliminated by the National Academy of Sciences and the Atomic Energy Commission, the states removed from consideration will swing their support to the remaining states

The campaign to get the atom smasher project will be the first demonstration of a united front in the Midwest," said Gene Graves, director of the Illinois Board of Business and Economic Development.

Hruska On Committee

The governors renewed their agreement on an informal basis at the Governors' Conference in Minneapolis last month Their efforts have the support of such groups as the Midwest Resources Association (MRA) and the Midwest Universities Research Association (MURA).

The MRA executive committee is composed of Gov. George Romney of Michigan, chairman; Gov. Karl Rolvaag of Minnesota, vice chairman; Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb.; Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.; Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill.; and Rep. Joseph E. Karth, D-Minn.

The atom smasher would be the world's largest. It would cost $300 million, have an annual budget of $60 million and employ 2,000.

For two decades Midwest colleges and universitires have produced a high percentage of the nation's scientific brainpower but the area has seen government grants for atomic research, nuclear reactors, and other futuristic endeavors gone elsewhere.

The exodus of scientific brainpower to other locales took with it the important technical talent and government-backed payrolls.

The East and West coasts have elaborate space research centers and the South boasts of manned space flight facilities

The only thing the Midwest could boast about was that the installations elsewhere were staffed to an embarrassingly large degree —with personnel trained in the Midwest.

Negro's Tongue Cut Out; Disliked Demonstrations

Greensboro, Ala. (UPI) — Authorities announced Wednesday that an elderly Negro who openly opposed racial demonstrations was found severely beaten with his tongue cut out.

Two Negroes were being held on charges of suspicion of assault. They were identified as David Lee McAlpine, 19, who was arrested during the July 29 demonstrations here, and Roosevelt Long, 21.

Chief Deputy Sheriff David Holloway said 76-year-old Perry Smaw was found by his daughter Sunday morning in his small home. He had been beaten Saturday with an iron skillet. The skillet was broken during the attack.

Smaw, suffering a fractured skull in addition to his other injuries, lapsed into a coma Tuesday at Hale County Hospital, Holloway said, and was not expected to live.

Camp New Chairman Teenage GOP Club

IMMIGRATION...

House OKs New System

Washington (AP)—A bill that would scrap the national origins immigration system that has guided U.S. policy for 41 years was passed overwhelmingly Wednesday night by the House.

The vote was 318 to 95.

Acting shortly after a plea from President Johnson to remove what he termed the present "shameful" restrictions in the law, the House sent the bill to the Senate, where it faces tougher opposition.

Discuss Schedule

Johnson discussed the Senate's legislative schedule at the White House late Wednesday with Democratic majority leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican lead er Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Dirksen told reporters afterwards the "emphasis was on the immigration bill" on which a Senate judiciary subcommittee will hold its second meeting Thursday.

He said the Presient also discussed another House-passsed bill to repeal Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act which permits states to ban union shop agreements.

Western Hemisphere

Before voting to knock out the quota system that assigns visas on the basis of the national origins of the U.S. population in 1920, the House rejected efforts to limit immigration from Western Hemisphere nations.

It took a separate roll call vote of 218 to 189 to uphold the present policy of unrestricted immigration from North and South America against a determined attack by Republicans.

When the proposal was first offered it was adopted by a non-record vote of 156 to 154. House leaders quickly rounded up missing members and reversed the setback on the later roll call.

Annual Ceiling

In place of the quota system, which now covers all countries outside the Western Hemisphere, the bill fixes an annual ceiling of 170,000, under which nations would be equally treated.

A limit of 20,000 would be placed on each country, with visas awarded on the basis of priorities favoring close relatives of U.S. citizens and permanent residents. Parents, minor children and spouses of citizens would be admitted without numerical restriction.

The legislation would lead to an estimated increase of about 50,000 in annual immigration, now averaging about 300,000 a year.

Another Ceiling

Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., offered the amendment which would have put a ceiling of 115,000 on the Western Hemisphere.

MacGregor said imposing a 20,000 limit on such western allies as England, France and Germany, while permitting unrestricted immigration from South America, would perpetuate the discrimination against nations the bill seeks to end.

"It would put the Western Hemisphere in a highly preferential position," he said.

MacGregor also said that immigration from Latin America could be expected to increase under the pressure of expanding populations.

Stained Glass Broken At United Brethren

Four panes were broken out of a stained glass window valued at $224 at the First Church of Evangelical United Brethren, 1333 No. 33rd, police said today.

William Sanders, 1741 No. 63rd, told police someone threw a pop bottle through the far west window on the north side of the church about 8:15 p.m. Tuesday night.

IMMIGRATION...

House OKs New System

Washington (AP)—A bill that would scrap the national origins immigration system that has guided U.S. policy for 41 years was passed overwhelmingly Wednesday night by the House.

The vote was 318 to 95.

Acting shortly after a plea from President Johnson to remove what he termed the present "shameful" restrictions in the law, the House sent the bill to the Senate, where it faces tougher opposition.

Discuss Schedule

Johnson discussed the Senate's legislative schedule at the White House late Wednesday with Democratic majority leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Dirksen told reporters afterwards the "emphasis was on the immigration bill" on which a Senate judiciary subcommittee will hold its second meeting Thursday.

He said the Presient also discussed another House-passsed bill to repeal Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act which permits states to ban union shop agreements.

Western Hemisphere

Before voting to knock out the quota system that assigns visas on the basis of the national origins of the U.S. population in 1920, the House rejected efforts to limit immigration from Western Hemisphere nations.

It took a separate roll call vote of 218 to 189 to uphold the present policy of unrestricted immigration from North and South America against a determined attack by Republicans.

When the proposal was first offered it was adopted by a non-record vote of 156 to 154. House leaders quickly rounded up missing members and reversed the setback on the later roll call.

Annual Ceiling

In place of the quota system, which now covers all countries outside the Western Hemisphere, the bill fixes an annual ceiling of 170,000, under which nations would be equally treated.

A limit of 20,000 would be placed on each country, with visas awarded on the basis of priorities favoring close relatives of U.S. citizens and permanent residents. Parents, minor children and spouses of citizens would be admitted without numerical restriction.

The legislation would lead to an estimated increase of about 50,000 in annual immigration, now averaging about 300,000 a year

Another Ceiling

Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., offered the amendment which would have put a ceiling of 115,000 on the Western Hemisphere

MacGregor said imposing a 20,000 limit on such western allies as England, France and Germany, while permitting unrestricted immigration from South America, would perpetuate the discrimination against nations the bill seeks to end.

"It would put the Western Hemisphere in a highly preferential position," he said.

MacGregor also said that immigration from Latin America could be expected to increase under the pressure of expanding populations

Stained Glass Broken At United Brethren

Four panes were broken out of a stained glass window valued at $224 at the First Church of Evangelical United Brethren, 1333 No. 33rd, police said today.

William Sanders, 1741 No. 63rd, told police someone threw a pop bottle through the far west window on the north side of the church about 8:15 p.m. Tuesday night.
